

Zack Strikes Back

Other "Saved by the Bell" titles include:

Mark-Paul Gosselaar: Ultimate Gold

Mario Lopez: High-Voltage Star

Behind the Scenes at "Saved by the Bell"

Beauty and Fitness with "Saved by the Bell"

Bayside Madness

California Scheming

ZaCK STRIKES BaCK

by Beth Cruise

Aladdin Paperbucks

Photograph and logo copyright © 1992 by National Scoadcesting Company, Inc.
All Rights Reserved. "Seven by the Bell" is a trademark of the National Broadcesting Company. Inc. Until under license.

Test copyright © 1966 by Collies Books.

Marsuillan Publishing Company
All rights reserved including the right of reproduction in whole or in part to any form.

Abddin Paperbacks
An imprint of Science & Schester
Children's Publishing Obvintos
1230 Avenue of the Assertant
New York, NY 10000

Printed in the United States of Asseries 109576343

Liberry of Congress Conlegiog-in-Publication Data Craise, Both Zack steller had; / by Both Craise

State strikes back / by Both Crains

Statement The Should by the Both product State State the mid-statements blum, maid a producter strikes at Bayadde High.

[I. Practical joines Ciction. Z. School-Fiction.] I. Title
PET CHRETZAI 1902

Fir deau 92-5182

To Peter Engel

ZaCK STRIKES BaCK

Chapter 1

Zack Morris strolled down the sidewalk on his way to the Max, the Bayside High hangout. Passing a window, he smoothed his blond hair and practiced his killer grin. Still smiling to himself, he pulled open the door of the Max. Just as he headed inside, he caught sight of a pack of runners on their way up the street, and the smile quickly faded.

"They're coming!" someone shouted, pointing excitedly. "The runners! Great," Zack moaned. This is just what I need."

"Oh, my gosh!" Kelly Kapowski exclaimed, her long, dark hair flying. "I told Cody I'd cheer him She pushed good-looking A. C. Slater, captain the football and wrestling teams, out of the booth, then hopped over his legs to run toward the down. Kelly had been going steady with the school hunk, Cody Durant, for a couple of months now. He was running in the Sidewalks-to-Sand Minimarathon.

The fifteen-mile race started at city hall in downtown Palisades and wound through different neighborhoods all the way to the beach. Zack had considered it, since he was on the track team, but there was no way he'd huff and puff alongside Cody, the golden surfer god, as he breezed his way to the finish line.

Slater trailed after Kelly as a big group of kids crowded on the sidewalk and watched as the first runners approached.

Zack got a sinking feeling in his stomach when he saw that Cody Durant led the pack. The hunk's bronzed chest was bare, and his muscular legs pumped as he ran easily. His black hair was held back from his forehead by a violet bandanna. When he caught sight of the cheering Kelly, he flashed a wide grin.

"He's not so hot," Zack muttered as Samuel Powers, better known as Screech, appeared on the scene. Screech was a tall, skinny dynamo who looked as if he'd been stretched a few inches and then put into a light socket.

Screech nodded vigorously, agreeing with Zack. "Not if you don't like exceptionally handsome guys," he said.

Disgusted, Zack watched as Kelly held up a plastic bottle filled with water. Cody paused just long enough to take it from her hand in a sweeping motion. He dunked the water over his head and then tossed it away. Now his muscles glistened as well as gleamed. Suddenly, Zack did feel sick.

Kelly turned away dreamily as everyone headed back into the Max. "Isn't be wonderful?" she sighed. "I've never been so happy in my life."

Zack slid into the gang's regular booth, a tragic look in his hazel eyes. Cody was all Kelly ever talked about. Just because the guy was gorgeous, had an incredible body, and was devoted to Kelly, was that any reason for her to adore him?

It was all my fault, Zack thought glumly. He'd been the one who had let Kelly go junior year. He'd been in love with her for years, but when they'd finally gone steady, things just didn't work out. When Kelly had told him that they should break up, he hadn't fought for her-he'd just agreed. He'd bought that he'd be free to chase all those girls who had tantalized him while he was with Kelly. But now that he was free to date again, he only canted to date Kelly.

Just then Lisa Turtle approached the table. Lisa was a pretty black teen whose wardrobe was top promity. Or was it boys? It changed from one day to next. But today she was looking glum.

What's the matter, Lisa?" Kelly asked, concorned Lisa sighed as she slid into the booth. "I Slater shook his curly dark hair. "It's the mid- Cody was in the lead. He looked great." term blues," he said. "Nothing can shake 'em." He sunk down farther in his seat, his muscular arms up a little. crossed.

Lisa's soft brown eyes were mournful. "Even the thought of shopping doesn't excite me."

"Oh, no!" Jessie Spano exclaimed as she came up to the booth. "Things must be really terrible." Jessie was Slater's girlfriend, even though they seemed to argue more than anything else. She had a great mind and a great body, but the first was more important.

"Does the thought of me excite you, Lisa?" Screech asked. Screech had had a crush on Lisa since grade school.

"Well," Lisa said, "I admit that I'm tempted." Practically swooning. Screech batted his eyelashes at her. "You are?"

"You bet," Lisa said. "I'm tempted to buy you a one-way ticket to Bora Bora."

Screech put a hand to his heart. "You do care," he said. "I just love the South Pacific."

"I'd be glad to be anywhere but here," Zack grumbled.

Kelly Kapowski shook her head. Her tanned skin glowed against the white tank top she wore. "I don't know what's wrong with you guys," she complained happily, her deep blue eyes sparkling. "I think things are terrific."

"Hey," Jessie said. "Did you guys see the race?

"He sure is gorgeous," Lisa cooed, brightening

"Down, girls," Zack said dryly. "Cody really isn't that exciting."

The girls all gave Zack a give-me-a-break look. Frowning, Slater leaned toward Jessie and tapped her on the arm. "Whoa, babe," he said. "If you want to see some muscles, you don't have to look very far." Slater worked out almost every day, and he had the body to prove his devotion to sports.

"You're right, Slater," Jessie declared. "I just saw lots of muscles on the street when the guys ran by. It wasn't far to look at all." Her light hazel eyes sparkled at him mischievously. Everyone knew that the was teasing. Jessie was crazy about Slater, and feeling was mutual.

Kelly sighed. "Cody is just so sweet. He wore my madanna in the race for luck."

The sound of jangling bells suddenly interrupted heir conversation. A hand gripped the edge of the mat behind Kelly's head. The arm was covered in bracelets, some of which were fashioned with mie bells. A small face rose up from the booth next them. It was a woman. Her eyes were lined bohl, and she wore a spangled scarf around mer head.

There is no luck, young lady," she told Kelly in bearily accented voice. "There is only fate."

Everyone stared at the woman in astonishment. The booth next to them had been empty a moment before. And the woman was completely different from anyone you normally saw in Palisades. She didn't have blond hair, she wasn't wearing a T-shirt, and she wasn't the least bit tan.

"Who are you?" Lisa asked.

"I am Rosina," the woman said, inclining her head. "I have come from the incuntains and the mists of my country. I saw a new land in a vision, with blue sky and blue water. And I knew I must come over the sea." She fixed each of them in turn with her dark, compelling eyes. "I have much to learn, but I came to teach also. About fate, destiny-forces beyond our knowing. Here in America you do not respect fate."

"Do you tell fortunes?" Lisa asked breathlessly. "I tell what can be," Rosina said with a shreg. "I do have this gift."

"You mean you can read our palms?" Jessie asked eagerly.

Rosina shook her head. "Your feet."

Zack and Slater snickered, but when Rosina looked at them, they stopped laughing. There was something about her glittering gaze that was decidedly spooky.

"The sales of the feet hold more secrets than the palms of the hands," she said, "Scoff if you will, but

"Gosh, it's so . . . mysterious," Lisa said.

"Mystical," Jessie agreed.

"Far out," Screech breathed.

"Five bucks," Rosina said.

Lisa dug into her pink patent leather purse. "I'm first," she declared. She handed five dollars over the seat to Rosina.

"Come this way," Rosina said. "We'll use a booth in the back for privacy." She rose, gathered p her long skirt in her hand, and moved toward the booth by the kitchen.

"Wish me luck," Lisa said with a giggle. She supped out of the booth and ran toward the back.

Zere ees no luck," Zack said, imitating Rosina's accent. "Zere ees on-lee fate."

Zere ees also onion rings," Slater said, moving e plate toward him. "And I'd rather swallow than mumbo jumbo." He popped one in his wouth.

"I think we should give Rosina a chance." Jessie regred. "Don't you believe in psychics, Slater?"

Sure I do," Slater said. "As a matter of fact, I've been told that I'm psychic."

Really?" Jessie asked.

Sater closed his eyes. "I'm getting a vision right see . . . a gorgeous red-hot momma with meg curly hair and even longer legs cuddling up to and whispering sweet nothings in my ear."

Jessie smirked. " 'Nothing' is exactly what you're going to get, big fellow. And it sure won't be Sweet."

"It doesn't look like you're much of a psychic, Slater," Zack pointed out.

Slater grinned. "I didn't say when it would happen. Jessie and I have a date tonight. Ask me tomorrow if I got any cuddling."

"Dream on," Jessie murmured, but she couldn't help melting a little when Slater gave her a cocky grin.

Just then, Liss run back to the booth in her bare feet. She tossed her brand-new pink leather sandals on the table. When they flew into Slater's catsupfilled plate, she didn't even wince. That's when the gang knew it was serious.

"Rosina is amazing!" Lisa declared, wonderment in her big, dark eyes. "She told me I'm going to be a famous fashion designer!"

Daintily, Zack picked up one of Lisa's catsupsplattered sandals by its strap. "You already have a head start," he said. "Look, a new trend-edible shoes."

"You'd have to deep-fry them first, Zack," Screech informed him gravely. "And I'd add some hot sauce, too."

Lisa looked down at her pink toenails with awe. "Who knew that toes could say so much?" she breathed.

"I'm next," Jessie announced, sliding out of the booth. "I've got to see this."

"But I already told your fortune!" Slater called after her. Jessie ignored him and headed toward the back booth and Bosina.

"I can't wait," Kelly said, taking a sip of her soda. "I'm sure Rosina will tell me everything I need to know about Cody."

Cody, Zack thought in despair, Cody Durant, the surfer god. Mr. Perfect; Mr. Wonderful.

Zack gazed at Kelly across the table and thought about her instead. She was so drop-dead gorgeous, it was a wonder he was still up and walking around. Her eyes were the blue of a desert sky. Her skin was flawless, lightly tanned with a few endearing frecides he knew by heart. Her great legs haunted his dreams, and her smile could light up Los Anecles. But the best part about Kelly, the part he really loved, was her heart. It was open, trusting, and honest. If sweetness were a town, Kelly would be Hershey, Pennsylvania.

"Zack, are you okay?" Kelly asked him wormedly. "You look kind of sick."

Zack almost groaned aloud. He was always inking remantic thoughts about Kelly, but she meated him like a brother—a sad, pathetic little brother she had to watch out for. "Must be the mion rings," he said weakly.

"But you didn't have any," Slater pointed out. Zack shot him a dirty look. "It was watching you them," he said. "That's enough to make anybuck barf."

Jessie bounced back to the table, her wild curls flying, "Guess what?" she exclaimed. "Rosine says that an important man will come back into my life. She said he'll change it completely!"

"Big deal," Slater said. "That already happened. We got back together last week. She must be in a time warp."

"No," Jessie said, sitting down. "She said an older man. It's totally mysterious."

"Wow," Lisa said. "An older man. That sounds really romantic Like Mel Gibson." When Slater gave her a hostile look, she said meekly, "Well, actually, it could be, like, George Burns, too."

"This is totally bogus," Slater said angrily. "It's so general. She's telling you just what you want to hear I can't believe you girls are falling for this."

"I agree," Zack said. "Take it from a master scammer. Rosina is a champ."

"Make that chump, partner," Slater said, scowling.

"I think it's exciting," Kelly protested, "I'm going next. That is, if you don't want to go, Screech."

Screech shuddered. "Are you kidding? I can't even handle my present. My future might send me mto shock."

"Maybe you shouldn't see Rosins, Kelly," Zack said. "You're so happy. Why spoil things?"

"She won't spoil anything," Kelly said, turning her head to search the Max. "She'll just confirm things. Hey, where is she?"

The rest of them scanned the café, but there was no sign of the spangled, exotic Rosma. She had disappeared into thin air.

"I didn't see her leave," Slater said.

Kelly slumped against the table. "Oh, no. I really wanted my fortune told. I wanted to hear what she had to say about Cody."

"Maybe she'll be back tumorrow," Lisa said en-

Suddenly Zack had an idea. A scam. He'd promsed himself he'd go easy on the scheming after he'd practically destroyed the school a few months ago as Student-Teacher Role-Reversal Day. He'd suspected that the Mud-Wrestling Festival in the gymwas a bad idea, but he hadn't expected the principal. Mr. Belding, to get suspended because of it. The that fiasco, Zack had straightened out. He had been good for quite a while now. No wonder he was bored!

Was he going to let Kelly slip away because of a scruples? Lisa had given him the perfect idea wanted her fortune told. Well, didn't Zack her fate better than anyone?

Shater raised an eyebrow at his friend, but he didn't say anything. "But I'm never going to know my future," Kelly said glumly.

"Not until it gets here," Screech agreed. "But then it will be your present, so you still won't know, your future."

"I'm totally disappointed," Kelly pouted.

Zack nodded sympathetically, but inside, he was grinning his widest grin. Good-bye, Snoresville, U.S.A. That old Zack magic was back!

Chapter 2

Late that afternoon, Zack raided his mother's closet. Luckily, his mother was a pack rat. She never threw anything away Even though he had to such to the very back of the closet, he found what he was looking for. Back in her younger days, before Zack was born, Amelia Morris had been a toppe

Zack pulled out long, dripping scarves and a tiee-ed chiffon skirt that would be about ankle-length in him. He even found some flowing scarves with magles, just like Rosina's. Then he raided his matter's jewelry box and came up with a pile of the bracelets and necklaces.

Zack bundled the loot under his arm and raced to the room. Within minutes, he had transformed himest man a gypsy. He wrapped a scarf around his head and penciled in a beauty mark near his mouth right where Rosina's was. Then he neered at himself to right where Rosma's was. Then he peered at him resour self in the mirror. He still somehow looked like But h Zack. It was his eyes. But Zack had his limits, and She had changed from her school clothes into an old one of them was eveluer. Instead he shaped one of them was eveluer. Instead he shaped one of them was eveluer. lower part of his face so you couldn't see his chin

His parents weren't home, so it was no trouble to sneak out to the driveway and jump into his car. Zack left the top of his convertible up. He wasn to about to let people see him driving around like this. At least dusk was falling fast, and soon it would be dark

When Zack got to Kelly's house, he parked the car halfway down the block, right underneath an overgrown pine tree that would probably drip sap on his new paint job. But at least the car would be concealed in the shadows.

Zack paused to give a last look in the rearview murror. He had to admit he looked great. He squinted at his image "Zere ees no such theeng as luck," he intoned. He pitched his voice lower and repeated it. He sounded just about perfect! Feeling brave and daring, Zack hiked up his cluffon skin and walked to Kelly's.

He rang the bell, praving that Kelly would answer. Kelly had so many sisters and brothers that there was no telling who would answer the door and turn him away. If he rang his own doorbell one of them was eyeliner. Instead, he slipped on the sweatshirt and blue leggings, and she looked Ray-Bans. Then he wrapped a scarf around the

Her face brightened when she saw Zack, then a bok of confusion crossed her face "Rosinal" she said. "How did you find me?"

Zack pitched his voice very low. "Fate has brought me here to read your fortune. I had a *1500m. "

"A vee-jon?" Kelly asked, puzzled.

"A vee-shun," Zack repeated. "You know." He exved his hands in the air in what he hoped was a anytheal way

"Oh, a vision," Kelly said, pleased. She opened te door wider. "Come on in."

Thank you, my child," Zack said.

"We can use my father's study," Kelly said, leadme the way down the hall. As she walked into the som, she put out a hand to turn on the light, since Se room was in shadow.

"No light," Zack said quickly. When Kelly looked a him curiously, he said, "My vinous come easier a the dark Besides, I have an eye infection."

Kells shrugged and left the light off. But she socied back at him. "But how will you be able to ==d my feet?"

"There is light enough where the spirit shines," Zack bubbled.

Kelly seated herself in her father's old maroor leather armchair. Zack sat on the matching footstool. Kelly took her sock off and placed her foot in his lap. He held it up, peering at it.

Kelly giggled "That tickles."

Zack wanted to laugh, too, but this was serious work. He frowned instead. "Your toes tell me you have found true love."

"They do?" Kelly asked breathlessly. "That's fantastic!"

"He is very close to you already," Zack said tracing a line down the sole of Kelly's foot while she squirmed and giggled. "But you do not see him."

"That's true," Kelly said in amazement. She blushed. "He's at the beach all the time, right?"

She was thinking about Cody again! "No," Zack intoned, shaking his head. "I do not speak of the physical. I speak of the heart. You do not see him with your heart."

"Oh," Kelly said, puzzled. "I don't?"

Zack shook his head solemnly "He is standing right beside you," he continued. "He has loved you long, and he has loved you well. There were times he was blind, and you were blind. Now he sees, and you do not."

Kelly gazed at him, enraptured. "What does be see?" she asked.

"He sees truedove. He sees that you are the only woman for him. Now you, too, must recognize this." Zack peeked at her. Kelly was leaning toward him, her mouth open, her eyes shiming, hanging on his every word. "Your true love is your old love," Zack said in a low, throbbing tone. "You must recognize his face."

Kelly frowned. "Recognize his face? I thought I knew him."

"You know him, but you don't know him," Zack said. He was beginning to feel frustrated. He knew he shouldn't spell out what he was talking about. But if he didn't get more specific, Kelly wouldn't realize that he was talking about himself. "He is fair and handsome. Smart, with a quick tongue."

Kelly looked puzzled. "He has krypton? Isn't that what Superman is allergic to?"

"Not krypton," Zack barked impatiently. "A

Suddenly the study door banged open. Kyle, one if Kelly's little brothers, stood on the threshold. Last year, when he'd been seven, he had enjoyed ading behind the couch in the family room when Zack and Kelly were watching TV. Every time Zack and tried to hiss Kelly, Kyle had stood up and topped him on the head with a pillow. He was eight now, and he'd only gotten worse.

"Who's that?" he asked, pointing at Zack.

"She's a gypsy," Kelly said impatiently. "She's telling my fortune. Go away, Kyle. We're busy."

Evic rolled his eyes and came farther into the room. "It doesn't look like a gypsy," he said. "It looks like a hippie."

"Kyle!" Kelly exclaimed, embarrassed, "Don't call Rosina an 'at.' And clear out, okay? 171 let you pick the TV programs tonight," she said in a wheedling voice.

Kyle tugged at Zack's scarf, and Zack dropped Kelly's foot, his heart pounding wildly. He snatched at his scarf before it fell off his head. Kelly's foot banged on the floor

"Ow!" she said, rubbing her toes.

"So sorry, young lady," Zack said with a bow "See? Sensitive foot Easy to read."

Kyle tugged at his scarf again. "You're funny," he said, "I know you "

In another minute, Zack would be unmasked "No, you don't, kid," he whispered fiercely. "And if you don't go away, I'll put a curse on you."

Kyle only stuck out his tongue and then tried to peer into Zack's face. Zack kept his head averted and began to back out of the room.

"Look, Kelly!" Kyle called out. "The gypsy's wearing running shoes!"

"I must go," Zack said frantically. "My spirit guides are calling."

Kelly rose "Wait, I have to pay you-"

"No charge, miss. No charge. Aloha," Zack blurted, and ran down the hall before Kyle could get near him again.

He wrenched open the front door and dashed down the street, hoping Kelly wasn't looking out the window. The real Rosina definitely wasn't a sprinter type.

Zack jumped into his car with a sigh of relief That had been a close one! But at least he'd been able to get through to Kelly He'd told her her true love was an old love, fair hatred, with a quick tongue. She'd have to know that it was Zack!

"I just couldn't believe it," Kelly bubbled to Slater, Lisa, and Zack the next morning before school. "Rosina just came right out and said that my true love was Codyl"

Zack gulped. "Cody?" he practically squeaked. "She did?" Lisa breathed. "How romante!" "Are you sure?" Zack asked.

Kelly nodded, "Absolutely, She said I'd known ben for a long time. Well, I met Cody the summer before last. She said that I've loved him a long time, and it's been three whole months. And she said zere were times when he was blind and I was and Cody didn't write to me for a whole year, and men when he came back into my life, I wasn't sure that he really loved me."

Thanks to Zack," Lisa pointed out dryly. "He was the one to rope Cody into his plan to embarrass Ms. Martinet." Ms. Martinet was the borrible temporary principal at Bayside High who had replaced

Mr. Belding. Zack had talked Cody into ignoring Kelly so that he wouldn't alterate Ms. Martinet.

"Hey, I got them back together, didn't I?" Zack protested. Sure he had He had had to, or he'd have lost Kelly's friendship forever

"You're so lucky, Kelly," Lisa told her. "It must really lessen the pressure to know that you've picked the right guy at last."

Kelly nodded. "It's fantastic," she said.

"I don't know, Kelly," Zack said. "It sounds pretty vague to me. How can you be so sure Rosina was talking about Cody?"

"She said that he's fair," Kelly said. "That's definitely Cody. The surfers at the beach all say how he doesn't hog the waves."

"Right," Zack said hopelessly. He hadn't meant fair. He'd meant fair. He'd meant himself!
"What else?"

"She said he's handsome," Kelly said dreamily "Oh, and that he has a quick tongue. I mean, isn't that Cody to a tee?"

Slater rolled his eyes at Zack. Cody wasn't exactly the best conversationalist in the world. Only Kelly would think be was witty

"Sounds like him all right," Slater agreed generously. He wouldn't hart Kelly's feelings if he could help it. Alarmed, Zack turned back to Kelly. "This woman is a crackpot!" he exclaimed. "You can't semously think she's for real, can you?"

A cloud crossed Kelly's brow "What do you mean, Zack? You were the one who said that she was the real thing, remember?"

Durn, he had said that. Zack met Kelly's gaze with honest hazel eyes. "I didn't say she was the real thing, Kelly," he lied. "I said she was a real ding-a-ling. She's obviously a complete fraud. How exuld any of her predictions ever come true?"

Just then, Jessie ran up to them excitedly, her early hair bouncing. Her face was flushed, and she was hugging her books to her chest. "Guess what!" she exclaimed. "Rosina's prediction came true!"

"Great firming, Jessie," Zack said sourly.

What is it?" Lasa demanded. "Did you met Mel ab—I mean, George Burns?"

My dad paid us a surprise visit last night," Jeser and Jessie's father had been divorced from her weher for ten years. He was an executive at a series hotel in San Francisco, where he lived with the new young wife. "And guess what? He and were have separated and he might be moving back to Falsades!"

That's great, Jessiel" Kelly said. "I know how it's not as great as meeting an incredible but it's good," Lisa said.

Slater. "He's the greatest."

freshen up my makeup. I only have lifteen minutes | kant'' before the bell."

"And I have to put my English paper in Mrs. Simpson's box," Slater said, "If it's not there this morning, my grade drops by a letter."

"I'll come with you," Jessie offered. "I want to tell you more about my dad."

Slater, Jessie, and Lisa headed off toward school. and Zack was left alone with Kelly She gazed over his shoulder, scanning the parking lot for Cody's blue van.

"Listen, Kelly," Zack said hesitantly. "I have to say something to you-as a friend."

"Sure, Zack," Kelly said, still gazing out at the parking lot.

"It's about what Rosina told you," Zack said. "Kelly, even if you think you know your true love. you still can't put all your eggs in one basket. I mean, you can't live on bread alone. There's more than one flavor to Life Savers. And there's plenty of fish in the sea."

Kelly fixed him with quizzical blue eyes. "Zack are you reciting a shopping list or do you have a point?"

Zack shook his head. "Kelly, Kelly, Kelly. You're

"I can't wait for you to meet him," Jessie said to a teenager You're young, free, and not even twenty-one. The teen years are a time of experi-Lisu glanced at her watch. "I hate to break this) mentation. Exploration. We're heading toward the up, gang, but I have to get to the girls' room and ram forest of life, and you're reaching for the defo-

"Zack," Kelly said impatiently, "you lost me sack with the fish and the Life Savers. Get to the point."

Zack grasped Kelly's arms. "The point is that wriety is the spice of life, Kelly. That's how we learn, how we grow. That's how we figure out what we want, and why. What kind of a life partner can sen he for Cody if you don't experiment in your tenage years?"

Kelly nodded slowly. "I see what you're saying, Zack. But if I'm lucky enough to find out who my we love is, I can't just walk away."

I'm not telling you to walk away." Zack said. wished he could tell her to run away "I'm -ting you that it's best for you and Cody if you and restrict yourself Test your feelings. Experi-** Explored It's the mature way to go, Kelly, told her soberly.

"I'm sorry, Zack," Kelly said. "You could be but . I just can't follow your advice."

Why not?" Zack asked. But Kelly wasn't lookn him anymore. Her gaze had wandered past to shoulder to the parking lot.

Zack turned. Cody was just swinging down from his van. He swept has longish black hair off has shoulder with a casual hand as he slammed the van door shut with his foot and started across the parking lot. He was wearing a denim shirt and jeans that were faded to a soft, pale blue. He looked very tan next to the pale color, and when he smiled at a passing girl, his teeth flashed in the sunshine. The girl walked straight into a tree.

"That's why." Kelly said happily.

Chapter 3

in Zack's P.E. class that day, Coach Sonski annumber of basketball. Warm-ups were first, and Lock pointed the line of guys waiting to do lay-ups. On Durant was in front of him, wearing gymmats and a sweatshirt with cutoff arms. Zack matched as Cody caught the basketball easily and here drove toward the basket and executed a permet lay-up.

...od. tossed the ball back to Zack, who caught it exist only a slight "Oof." He dribbled toward the mast, then tossed the ball in an arc. It wobbled exact the sim three times, then dropped away.

Too bad, man," Cody said in a friendly way as Baskethall isn't my sport," Zack said.

Vine, either," Cody replied. His fingers drummed against his leg nervously, and he peerdiretty she is. How much I'm nuts about her. You at Zack, then looked away,

"Something on your mind, Cody?" Zack asked Zack nodded, "Oh, right, Stuff." He hoped Cody wasn't going to confide in his Cody sighed. "You might not believe this, Zack having trouble, and it had been agony It's Kelly." Cody said. He looked around nea vously Coach Sonslo was at the other end of th court, arranging a passing drill. "Can I talk to you Zack?" Cody said in a low voice.

No. you girlfriend-stealing, muscle-flexing hund of perfection. "Sure," Zack said.

"You know her, right?" Cody said. "You were her dude and all And you might be able to help me

"Me?" Zack asked incredulously. "Help you Um, I mean, what do you have in mind Cody?"

"Kelly is real romantic," Cody confided "So : take her out to this place by the beach the other night A nice place Real napkins I mean, they ever gave you menus. Zack. You didn't order at counter or anything. I'm talking class."

"I get the parture." Zack nodded gravely

"So I'm holding her hand and we're looking a the waves, and she's staring at me. And I know the she's waiting for me to tell her stuff."

"Stuff?" Zack asked

"Romantie stuff. About her eyes and junk. H 🔹 now, stuff."

again about Kelly Zack had become Cody's confi know it might be hard to accept and all. But dant a couple of weeks ago when the two had beet with girls, I'm not the same witty talker that I am ezound guys."

"No!" Zack exclaimed. "You're kidding."

"No." Cody assured him, moving up to the head the line. Bucky Finelli was dribbling down the surt for his lay-up. "I swear. It's a brain-drain me. It's like I'm stoped or something." Just then, Socky tossed the basketball to Cody, and it bonked m m the head.

Cody looked sheepish as he retrieved the ball. bounced it toward the basket for his lay-up. The swished in.

Zack caught the ball and concentrated hard as he toward the basket. He tossed the ball, but it ar the backboard and careened off to the side.

anyway," Cody continued as Zack reached the es of the line, "as I was saying, I'm just not cool wand girls I like. And I'm really freaked that it's to bother Kelly."

I don't know what to tell you, Cody," Zack said. zess you just have to loosen up. Try pretending e s a guy."

cody thought about this. "I can't do that, Zack. mena, no guy has legs like Kelly."

"That's for sure," Zack muttered forvently

"So I was thinking that I'd write to her It's the perfect solution, man. A love letter I don't think Kelly's ever really forgiven me for not writing to her after we met two summers ago."

"Letters are good," Zack said, nodding. "Girk just eat 'em up." Giving Cody advice was a piece of cake. All Zack had to do was agree and nod a lot Cody's head bobbed enthusiastically "I'm glad you said that. Because I want you to write one for me,"

Zack stared at him in amazement. "You want me

"I want you to write a love letter to Kelly for me," Cody said patiently.

"I heard you," Zack said. "I just don't believe what I'm hearing."

"Well, I can't write it!" Cody said defensively "Look, Zack, you've got the gift, man. You know what to say to girls. You know what makes their melt. So I thought maybe in exchange for surfing tips, you could write a letter. All you have to do is pretend you're still in love with Kelly. It simple."

"Simpler than you think," Zack murmured.
"Huh?"

"Nothing."

"You'd be the most incredibly cool dude in the universe if you'd do this, Zack," Cody told have

Zack thought hard. It was probably a really bad ea. Write a letter to Kelly so that she'd fall even arder for this surfing stud? It just didn't make

Unless you applied a whole new system of logic.

Locy and Kelly plus Zack Morris could equal one pay pair. Zack thought. And he didn't mean

Less and Cody. It would just take a little scheming.

Lanyone could turn a negative situation into a mive one, it was Zack. He probably could win less back from Cody if he was right in the middle the two of them.

ody executed another lay-up. This time, the mused the hoop completely. He ran after it exposhly, then supped the hall back to Zack.

He told himself that his luck would start to right now if he made the right moves. Thout moving any closer, he tossed the hall in a series are all the way across the gym floor. It would through the net without even touching 12 nght!" everyone yelled.

To so to go, Morris!" Coach Sonski shouted from pogged toward Cody, grinning. "Til do it!"

see him. Cody reached out to give him a high

lex. Zack thought, slapping Cody's palm in satisfaction. This Il be the way to win Kelly but You know, this would be a great place for my How can anything go wrong?

That night Slater arranged his very own fants: evening. He had the beach. He had the full most He had the blanket and the boom how with a know sack full of rumantic tapes. The only thing masses was the girl

Jessie was with him, all right. But every time is moved in for a little romantic action, she started talking about her father. It was really putting the damper on Slater. After all, what kind of a go would think about any other man when Slater was around?

"Look at the moon," Slater said softly He genguided Jessie back until she was leaning on he elbows, looking up at the night sky

"It's beautiful," Jessie said in a bushed vote. She twisted around and looked deeply into his ever 'Did i ever tell you that my father wanted to be a astronomer?

Fascinating," Slater said "Your eves look bear brul in the mooninght, Jessie.

Thanks," Jessie smiled softly at him, and himoved in for the kill. Their lips were almost touching when she suddenly sprang forward. Slater fell-back on the blanket in despair.

You know, this would be a great place for my and dad to spend some time together," Jessie sed "It's a terrific place to just get away from crything and talk, isn't it?"

Talking wasn't what I had in mind," Slater mabled.

Last night I heard them talking in the living on after I went upstairs to bed," Jessie said. "I en heard my mom laugh. She never laughs when a talking to my dad."

Vimmm," Slater said. He reached out a hand of began to run his fingers through Jessie's long, precous hair jessie wriggled a little hit backward in appreciaa, but she remained upright, staring at the moonered ocean. "I guess they just needed some time bee each other's point of view," she said thoughtealy. "I know what that's like."

Me, too," Slater agreed. He sat up and slipped ins arm around Jessie. "We were like that once Fighting all the time. Never again, right?"

lessie nodded. "Never. I mean, we have a much more mature relationship now. And we're really mether, you know?"

Totally in sync," Slater agreed. He took Jessie's in in his hand and gently turned her head so that sie was facing him. "Every day, I feel closer to mu," he said softly Jessie's hazel eyes turned moky, and her mouth parted. He felt a sigh drift sist his cheek. Slater leaned in and kissed her

Finally! Jessie responded to the kiss, and Slate slipped both arms around her. Her lips were see and curved under his invitingly. Now things well really getting started. He was in for some seriou cuddling with his number one sweetie

They broke the kiss, and Slater ran a finger down the curve of her cheek "You are some gorgers. package momma. ' he murmured

Oh Slater Jessie marmured throatily 'D you thank my parents could really get back i gcther?

Slater slammed a hand down on the blanker "That's it!" he said. "I've had it. Jessie, are yehere with me, or are you still home with your par ents? Because if you're here right now, you're git mg a pretty good imitation of someone who doesn't want to be."

Jessie stiffened. "Wait a second," she said angrily. "Let me get this straight. Something super important is going on in my life, and all you care about is getting your full love quotient for the might!"

That's not true," Slater sputtered. "I just wan to be with you. Not you and the whole Spane

Jessie sprang to her feet. "Well, thanks a lot Now I know who to come to when I need some understanding. Anybody but youl Slater rose in one quick motion. "What's the posed to mean?" be demanded hothy

It means that you don't even want to listen to me!" Jessie shouted. Suddenly, her eyes filled with what do you know about it, anyway? no se always had a family. Your dad never left You don't know what it's like to want a family had-" Jessie choked, and she couldn't go on slater felt instantly contrite 'Aw, Jessie, I'm rry Come on. Sit down and we can talk."

lessie's eyes flashed. "Forget ft. I've learned my na. I'll never confide în you again, A. C. Sinter est if you think I'll ever kiss you again, you're stitively deranged!" Tossing her curls, Jessie ran the beach hnekly Slater bent down and gathered up the Manket and boom box. He had to stop Jessie from breng to walk home in the dark. The girl was crazy wigh to do something like that Sater sighed. So much for the new, improved ersion of their relationship. It looked like he and essie were back to the same old fireworks display ence States had loved their constant sparringre day was like the Fourth of July. But even a blue patriot didn't mind a day off now and en. And Slater wanted Jessie to know how much ally cared a lot.

Chapter 4

Dear Kally,

You wight think it's using gotting a latter fram me. After all, I see you every day. But there are so many things in my heart that there ever's enough bours in the day to express them and lead. I thought it would be easier to unite them, but may I'm starting at the page and I don't know where to start. What would blue. Simpose say?

Okey. Sim'd say, "Organize your amin points in order of importance, Nr. Durant." But I only have one point, and it's really simple. I leve you, Kelly. Even when I sell about school or existing a more, I'm enelly fideling how protty you are. And when I tell you how blue the ocean is, I'm really shinking of your open.

Love.

Cody

Kelly pressed her tips to the letter. Then she tied

Mae ribbon around it and placed it underneath pillow. She crawled under the covers and gazed the window A full moon was rising, and she

tel as she looked at it to had never felt so perfectly, blissfully happy tony worry about Cody that had been nagging or had been dispelled. There were times, she is admit now that she hungered for a more mainte Cody. He usually talked about surfing or ports, and sometimes she even could get the teensest bit bored. She'd just zone out, staring at his near green eyes and great shoulders while Cody troped on about every wave he'd caught that berning before school. Kelly hadn't liked to admit berself, but she had wondered if Cody.

herself, but she had wondered if Cody had a

And now it turned out that he was the most antic guy ever Even more romantic than Zack' k had teased and kidded her, but in his serious moments, he had made her feel like the most beau gart alive. Now it turned out that Cody was re bit as romantic as Zack—even more so!

and when I tell you how blue the ocean is, I'm

Kelly smiled as she began to drift off to sleep thought of how great tomorrow would be the at smiles and glances that would pass between and Cody. Now she knew his secret soul Cody wasn't just another gorgeous surfer—he was a poet!

The next morning at school Jessie stood talking to Lisa trying not to look for Slater. She had still been furious when he'd dropped her off at her house the night before, and there was no way she'd spend even one second wondering about the whereabouts of that curly headed, adorable jerk. When it came to emotions, he was somewhere around caveman level, and he had spent last night

"What's the matter, Jessie?" Lisa asked. "You keep twisting around. Are you practicing a new dance, or are you looking for Slater?"

Jessie shook her head "Neither I have a -- uh -- staff neck."

"Too cold at the beach last night?" Lita asked with an impish grin.

Just then Stater came up behind Jessie "Way to: cold," he said. "Freezing, in fact."

"Didn't you keep her warm, Slater?" Lisa asked him. "That's your job."

Jessie tossed her head. "I was fine. Lisa, we should get to class."

For the first time, Lisa realized that something жтопд between Jessie and Slater. She shivered тит. Speaking of cold temperatures, are vou in fighting again?"

We're not fighting," Jessie said evenly. "I'm with too mature to fight. It's just that I've recently to realize that I'm duting a Neanderthal with

Stater turned to Lisa. "So sue me if I wanted her individed attention last night. I tried to apologize, but you know Ms. Spano. She acted like I'd thrown my plastic recyclables out on the side of the netway."

That bad," Lisa said sympathetically

I mean, what do I have to do—grovel?" Slater sed isa saw the gleam in Jessie's eves, "You know, finter," she said as she adjusted her skirt, "I think hat might be the way to go."

Hey, I grovel for no woman," Slater said, crosshis muscular arms. Lisa gave him a meaningful hisk, and he sighed, "Except my woman," he added plessly

Slowly Slater sank to his knees. "Jessie, I was prong. Please forgive me," he said. "This is a to-air sincere grovel."

essie batted at him, embarrassed. "Slater, get I don't want you to grovel"

But I'm so good at it," Slater protested Jessie pressed her lips together to hide a grin. "Why should I forgive you?" she asked. "All I ask is that you be interested in my mind, not just my body."

Still on his knees, Slater moved a bit closer to her "If you want me to be interested in your mind momma, don't take me to a deserted beach with a full moon."

One corner of Jessie's mouth lifted but she trace to frown 'I don't know what to do 'she said barely able to suppress a giggle when Slater put his curl-covered head against her knee and looked of at her with pleading soft, brown eyes.

"If I were you, I'd forgive him," Lisa said flath.
"If you don't do it soon we're going to have to spread newspapers on the floor."

Jessie patted Slater's head, "I forgive you. Now get up hefore Lisa gives you a dog biscuit."

"All right, already," Slater said, rising and dust ing off his knees. "I'm not your very own pupps dog, you know."

"I know," Jessie said. She leaned over and kissed him on the nose "But your cose is kind of cold and wet."

Slater took a menacing step closer to her. "Don't push it, Spano." he growled He leaned over and gave her a smacking kiss on the lips. Then he barked at her Lisa rulled her eyes. "You guys had better ent out the sweet stuff. It's bad for my completion essie sauggled closer into Slater's arms, "I'm so se we made up," she said.

Me. too," Slater agreed. "Making up is the best of an argument. Especially if we go back to the an he added with a devilish grin.

I have a better way to make up. Jessie said "I and you to come to dinner tonight and meet my water gulped Meeting Mr Spano was not exthis idea of a romantic evening but he wasn to but to make that mistake again 'Sounds great.''

ssie cocked a flirtatious evebrow at him "And that she said, her eyes twinkling 'we can go the beach" ody cornered Zack by his locker. "It worked. ean," he told him in a low tone. "You're a genius. Lelly thinks I'm the most romantic guy since

e, like, Don

Juan?" Zack finished

Johnson," Cody finished. "Who's Don Juan? I no't keep track of these actors nowadays.

He's not an actor," Zack explained. "He's a Casa Nova?" Cody repeated the name, "Is that that new Mexican restaurant on Ocean Parkway?

Zack patted Cody on the shoulder "Forget. Cody I was glad to help " Actually, Zack had et joyed writing the letter to Kelly. He d been able t spill on paper all the things he'd wanted to say t her face. While he was writing, he d forgotten a about Cody It had been a complete shock when Cody had taken the paper recopied the letter ansigned his name. Zack had been left with a funn feeling in his stomach

"See you around," Zack said. 'Good luck with Kelly "

"Wait a second, man," Cody said, hurrying aftehim. "What about today?"

Zack stopped "What about it?"

"You have to write another one," Cody said told Kelly I'd write her a letter every day '

"You what?" Zack said meredulously

"I told Kelly I'd write--"

"I heard you!" Zack rouzed. A couple of student turned and looked at him, and he lowered his voice "Cody, why did you do that? I can't write Kelevery day!"

'Why not?"

"Because Well because I'll get writer eramp," Zack improvised. He shook his hand anwinced. 'With all the writing I have to do a school-and writing to Kelly-I don't know Law night I had to do draft after draft until it was ablutely perfect. It was rough, Cody "

A hy don't you use a typewriter?" Cody sug-- - That would be easier for me, too, because - [ wouldn't have to recopy it I'm not good at -- -anship, cither wou out once But I can't make a regular thing

That would be agony, Zack thought ome on, Zack You ve just got to All of a sud-- Kelly thinks I'm a real romantic dude. You ....d have heard her go on and on about the part . - re I said when I was talking about the ocean, I ve really thinking about her eyes. That was inman She thinks I'm a poet I mean, she mas you're a poet You can't stop now " a poet huh," Zack mused. Kelly had never __ ~i him a poet. He had to admit he was flattered · ourse, now she'd said it about Cody But somea it felt pretty good, anyway

All right," Zack said finally 'I'll do a couple ere But that sit 'He could force himself to pour me his heart to his one and only love, his destiny, tate, his Kelly

Who is that?" Zack blurted to Cody as a curvawas knockout with a wild head of flaming red hair . Leed by She was dressed in a classy but formfit at black numbress, and she gave Zack a long look . In glittering topaz eyes that were rimmed with spiky lashes. 'Wow," Zack breathed

You said it, man," Cody agreed, watching the make her sinuous way down the hall "She must be the new transfer student. I bear she's from Europe. Or maybe France, I don't remember."

"Wow," Zack said. It wasn't often he was at a loss for words. But Mademonselle VaVaVa Voon had knocked every coherent thought out of he head.

"So can you write the letter tonight?" Cody

"Sure 'Zack said. "I'll put it in Kelly's locker temorrow." Zack's scheming mind was alread hard at work. After he poured his heart out a Kelly, he'd be ready to take on new projects, new interests. As long as Kelly was head over heels for Cody. Zack didn't have to sit by idly. His first new project would be to become a one-man welcoming committee for the new transfer student at Bayside High. Its the least I can do, he thought. The poor girl seemed awfully shy

Chapter 5

That night Slater arrived at Jessie's house and had slowly up the steps to the front door. He was nervous. He usually felt at ease what situations, but Jessie was so excited about him getting along with her hat his nerves were completely shot ten Jessie opened the door, he felt better imuten Just the sight of his gorgeous girlfriend cure anyone. She looked fantastic in a red ant and a black sweater with black tights and a suede boots.

Whon." Slater murmured. "Are you sure you to look so bot when we have to eat with your mass? I'm probably going to drop roast beef in

"We're having chicken," Jessie said, smiling.

"Sorry I m late Slater said My dad had work late so I sat with my mom while she it dunter. She gets lonesome when she has to exalone.

"That was sweet of you." Jessic said.

"Don't you know that I may sweet guy at heart Slater murmured, sliding his arm around her was." "Or do I have to show you all the time?"

Jessie batted his arm away laughing 'Behay yourself And come meet my dad.'

Slater walked into the living room Mr Sparwas standing by the fireplace a drink in his ham He was dressed in a gray suit and a silk tie of mutiviolets and grays. A little formal for a dinner a home Slater thought Maybe he should have work a he too He'd worn his best sweater though

"Dud." Jessie said proudly "I d like you to mee A C Slater Slater this is my dad. Alex Spano Slater shook his band. I m glad to meet yo. Mr. Spano."

"Glad to meet you — Slater? Isn't that who Jessie calls you?"

Slater nodded

Do you have a first name?" Mr. Spano querie-'Sure. A. Slater joked. And my middle namis C."

Mr Spano gave a si ght smile "Jessie why doe you offer Slater a soda or a glass of juice?"

"I'll bave whatever you're having." Slater said we With despair, he watched her leave the Now he d have to make conversation with Spano. But he'd already thought of his opening outon. 'What are you doing in Palisades, sir?'' asked.

Visiting my daughter, mostly," Mr Spano re
"And I'm doing some business with the Pali "Beach Resort Hotel The hotel I work for is

"tof a chain, and we're thinking of acquiring this too I hope the deal goes through. That way get to see Jessie more San Francisco is just too away"

I know Jessie would like that, too," Slater and what are your interests, Slater?" Mr sports," Slater replied cheerfully "I'm captain ne football team, but I'd have to say that my real as wrestling"

Ah." Mr Spano said. "Do you have a nick me? I've seen that Hulk person, I think"

You're thinking of professional wrestling, sir," er said politely 'Amateur wrestling is different rually, it's more professional than professional estling, if you know what I mean."

I see And what else are you interested in?"

Jessie ' Slater admitted with a grin. But in a ment, he realized that his remark had gone over a lead balloon

"Are you interested in politics, the environment, theater" Mr. Spano asked, marning Jessie interests

'Theater, sure," Slater said, seizing on the la item. "I love movies."

Mr. Spano's lips pressed together How about modern art?"

"I've got some neal posters in my room home," Slater offered He felt like he w. drowning.

He was saved when Jessie came back in, carryitwo glasses of tomato juice. She handed one Slater 'If you re trying to find out if Slater an have anything in common don't bother Dadde she said, shooting a fond glance at Slater 'Sorrhow we manage to have fun, though "

"You said it, momma," Slater said enthusias cally. Then he caught a glimpse of Jessie's fatheface and he said. What I mean is, Jessie is a veruh, stimulating intellectual companion

Mr. Spano only grunted

There was an awkward pause Then Jessie mother appeared in the doorway. She was a tawinows woman with short, light brown hair and winning smile. "Slater! How are you, sweethear she asked cheerfully as said with a grin. "It's my only domestic ac-- ...shmeut." Mrs. Spano was a public defender, Slater knew she worked like a fiend. Since Jeswasn't much of a cook, either, the two of them were than their share of take-out. At least if Mr came back, they might eat better. Jessie had Slater that her father was a fabulous cook.

At least Jessie's mom was cruzy about him Great, Mrs. Spano. What smells so delicious? "Roast chicken with resemany and garlie," Mr.

think it's ready," Mrs. Spano went on. "So bead to the table, shall we?"

smells great, Katie," Mr Spano said warmly set a hand on Mrs. Spano's back as they left the esse gave Slater a significant look, and Slater ned his eyebrows. From what Jessie had told at did seem as though her parents were getting g better than they ever had, including when were marned.

That's because you helped," Mrs. Spano said a bright laugh.

ater tugged on the bottom of Jessie's sweater as room. stopped in her tracks and turned to look at him What is it?" she asked ater waited until her parents were definitely est of earshot. "Jessie," he whispered, "your father wes me."

Don't be ridiculous," Jessie whispered back. - doesn't even know you yet. How could be are you?"

"He thinks I'm a cross between Hulk Hogan ar Jughead," Slater said despairingly

Jessie giggled. "Well, if the shoe fits

"Jessie, I'm not ladding," Slater's eves had pleading look. "This dinner party is the Titanic at I'm the one who's going down with the ship."

Jessie patted his arm reassuringly. "You're ber paranoid," she told him, "I'm sure my dad is gonto love you just as much as I do. And besides, he too busy thinking about my morn to worry alswho I'm dating. Come on, let's go eat

Stater's feet felt like lead as he followed Jessie to the dining room. For her sake, he wanted the Spanos to get back together. But if they did, he puright be dead meat. Stater shuddered as he had sudden vision of the Spanos' next dinner party. I silver dish cover would be lifted, steam would rust and. Mr. Spano's signature dish, surrounded I sprigs of parsley, would be revealed. Stater's beautiful.

The next day at school, Zack arrived early at went straight to Mr. Belding's office. It was definitely a change to go there voluntarily. Usually belding was the one to command Zack's presentand it wasn't because the principal enjoyed chatting with him. From Zack alone, Mr. Belding's ca pet had a worn spot in front of the desk. Zack found muself standing there more than the rest of the tents combined

Asek knocked on the door and stock his head wound it before Mr Belding could answer. He gove him a dazzling smile. "Good morning, Mr Belding."

Mr Belding winced. His usually bland, pleasant nee was creased in a deep frown. "Please, Morris. at today I already have a headache. Whatever arayation you're going to cause, can't it wait until porrow?"

Zack strolled into the office. "Aggravation? Mr Beking, I just came to say hello That's all?" Mr. Belding asked suspiciously Zack nodded virtuously. "That's all I was just backing this morning how awful it is that no one over drops by to say hi. So I thought, Zack, it's up wou. So, hi, Mr. Belding

Hi. Zack," Mr. Belding answered patiently

Sure." Zack started toward the door When his and was on the knob, he hesitated

Mr Belding closed his eyes. "Please, no," he

There's just one little thing," Zack said.

No." Mr. Belding said. "No. no. and no."

I didn't ask vet," Zack pointed out

You didn't have to," Mr. Belding said. "Whatever your request is going to be, I already know it will be inappropriate, outrageous, and possibly indecent. So, no."

"Well, how do you like that," Zack said. "I come here to do you a favor, to support Sayside High and you won't even listen." He sighed

Mr. Belding winced again. "What is it?" be asked through gritted teeth

"I know how hard you work, sir, to get that family feeling here at Bayside," Zack told him "For instance, when Cody Durant transferred here, you assigned him a student to help him through the transition. I applaud that idea, Mr Belding. It makes a new student feel welcome. And that's why I'd like to volunteer to help the next transfer student adjust to a new school."

Mr Belding nodded slowly, "You wouldn't have happened to have seen a new transfer student around, would you, Zack?"

Zack shook his head. "I heard there was some one," he said with a shrug. "But I haven't seen her yet."

"So this new spirit of volunteerism would have nothing to do with wanting to date the new student would it?" Mr. Belding asked Zack put a hand on his heart. "Mr. Belding, I am shocked—shocked!—that you think I have an ulterior motive. All I want is to uphold the welcoming spirit and family atmosphere here at Bayside csc things create a shining example for all of us, should never, ever be tarnished by those cymes

o would deny the pure hearts and deep feelings those of us who—

Afr Belding looked at his watch. "Are you going faush that sentence anytime soon, Zack? Hecause have work to do. And the answer is no."

But Mr Belding-"

I have asked Ms. Del Olio if she would like a adent to help her through her first week here, and has declined. She's a very sophisticated young at and she's used to adjusting to new schools thather is a diplomat, and I believe she is accusted to new situations. End of issue. Good-e Zack."

But-

Cood-bye," Mr. Belding said with conviction lack knew from experience when a conversation wor. And this one definitely was. "Tell Mrs. his to bring me two aspirin on your way out, wou?"

If she needs a locker, she can share mine," Zack Fered "I know how tight locker space is, Mr witing

Make that three aspirin," Mr. Belding said.

Lack passed the message on to Mrs. Gibbs.

headed for his locker. There just had to be a not to meet Ms. Del Oho. At least now he knew aame. He paused by Kelly's locker and quickly slipped in his latest love letter. When he turned away, Slater was just rounding the corner And with that snake in the grass was the new transfer student!

She looked sophisticated and alluring in a short navy jacket and matching short skirt. She definitely looked older than the other girls. And she was looking at Slater as though he were the king of Bayside High. Zack had better blast his way into this conversation before Slater flashed his dimples and managed to get the new girl in a wrestling hold. Besides, wasn't Slater going steady with Jessie these days?

"Hey, Slater," Zack said, coming up to them "How was meeting Jessie's father last night?"

"A disaster," Slater said cheerfully. "Zack, meet our newest transfer student, Dolores Del Olio. Dolores, this is Bayside High's biggest troublemaker, Zack Morris."

Zack gave Dolores his trademark thousand-watt smile. "Well, hello," he said warmly. "Welcome to Bayside High."

A small frown appeared between Dolores's eyebrows. "Troublemaker?"

Zack smiled and looked deeply into her gargeous topox eyes. "Don't listen to Slater. I prefer scann master."

"Zack turned the school completely upside down during Student-Teacher Role-Reversal Day Sater volunteered. "You should have seen the gymwer the Mud-Wrestling Festival!"

Oh, my," Dolores said. Zack knew she was imessed with his great looks and the Wacky hednesday maybem. He could tell by the breathess tone in her voice

"That was nothing compared to when the microwave ovens exploded," Zack added modestly

Marshmallow goo all over the second floor!'

I didn't know Bayside High was so . . . excit-

Oh, it's the most exciting place around," Zack and, moving in for the kill. "Why don't you let me bow it to you?"

Dolores backed away, "I don't think so," she said nervously. "I have to go now. It was nice meeting boys," she added. "Maybe 1'll see you would "

With a deep frown, Zack watched Dolores go Looks like the Morris cannonball was a dud, " Stater said with a sucker, "She couldn't get away ast enough."

I don't get it. Zack said. "Where did I go Slater shrugged. "Maybe she thought you seren't sophisticated enough," he guessed. "I was talking to her about Europe She's been everywhere. Her favorite place is Monte Carlo. Her last boyfriend was a race-car driver. She spends her holidays in Switzerland. Somehow I can't see her being attracted to the scam master of Bayside High can you?"

"So we got off on the wrong foot," Zack said. "I have my sophisticated side, too, you know,"

Slater guffawed. "Yeah—when you order a hordog without chih on it. right?" Still laughing. Slateheaded off down the hall

Slater thinks his own jokes are hysterical, Zach thought irritably. But he did have a point. There had to be another way to get to Dolores.

Maybe Zack could arrange a little fortune-telling by Rosina—pull the same scam on Dolores. But, or there was no way he'd put on those bracelets again. They'd given him a rash, and he hadn't been venconvincing as a gypsy, anyway. Besides, he'd have no respect for himself in the morning if he used the same scam twice.

Then, suddenly, the most brilliant scheme Zack had ever concocted burst into his brain in all in glory. He snapped his fingers. He could leave of the bracelets and the skirt. But there was something else of Rosina's that could come in very hand when it came to wooing Dolores Del Olio.

Chapter 6

Sater looked for Jessie all day, but she was note to be found. She didn't go to her locker in the rung, and she didn't eat lunch in the cafeteria or twice he thought be deaught a glimpse of hair in the crowded hall, but after he'd shed through the sauntering students, Jessie was the end of the school day, Slater was at the resk of frustration. He had a nagging fear that rane was avoiding him because of her father waited by her locker for lifteen minutes, but use didn't show up

nally he gave up and started toward the door be had promised his mother he'd run an errand for st downtown, so he couldn't wait for Jessie for His mom had bought a new dress that was being altered, and Slater had promised to pick it us

As he pushed through the doors of school, he say Jessie hurrying down the walk. With her long legged gait and flying hair, Jessie was always can to spot

Slater called her name and hurried after her Jessie appeared not to hear him, but when he called again, she stopped. Then she slowly turned around as he approached.

"Where have you been all day, Jess?" he asked in concern. "I've been trying to track you down.

Jessie shrugged. "I had a real busy day," she said evasively. She was wearing sunglasses, so he couldn't see her eyes "Are you all right?" Slater asked, peering at he-Jessie passed a hand through her hair "I'm fine Listen, I have to go, so—"

"Wait a second." Slater grabbed her arm, and the sunglasses slipped a bit down Jessie's nose. Her eyes were cloudy and bloodshot. "Hey," Slater saysoftly. "Have you been crying, sweetheart?"

Jessie's mouth trembled. "Oh, Slater. My pusents had a huge argument last night I'm afraid they'll never get back together now!"

"But they seemed fine at dinner" Slater said buffled

"It was after dinner," Jessie said in a low tone
'My father "Her voice trailed off and she looked away

"Your father what?" Slater prodded. "Did a something to do with me? You can tell me.

He didn't like you very much," Jessie said in a mall voice. "I mean, it was nothing personal. But thinks I could do better."

That's not personal?" Slater asked, aggrieved.

Just what does he have against me?"

Well," Jessie said, souffing, "he thinks that

What's wrong with that?"

Well, nothing. But Dad said that it's obvious that you have no serious interests. That you're just ock. He says that we have nothing in common and that I could do much better—I mean, I could had someone more compatible. He didn't like that were late for dinner. And he thought your hair was too long Anything else?" Slater asked sarcastically lessic hesitated "Well," she added, "he hated ar sweater."

Irritation coursed through Slater, but he tried to be patient. "What did you say?"

I defended you, of course," Jessie said. "So did no mom. That's why they fought. Mom said that Dad had no right to dictate to me. And he said that he was just showing a concern that she should have, no. And she said . . . oh, never mind," Jessie nobed. "It doesn't matter. The whole thing is no celess."

Jessie's eyes slid away from his, and suddenly, foreboding snaked through Slater. "Hey," he said "you don't blame me for this, do you?"

"Of course not," Jessie returned uneasily "But you hadn't come to dinner, it wouldn't have have pened "

"But you asked me to come to dinner!" Slater exploded

"Well, you didn't have say yes!" [essie said illeeically. Then she burst into tears. "And you didn have to wear that sweater!"

"Jessie, your mother is right," Slater said deter minedly "Your father has no right to lay down the law at this point. He practically disappeared from your life for years. I know you love him, but-

"He's just trying to watch out for me," Jesse said, wiping her eyes and putting her sunglasses back on 'Look, he may be coming on too strong But he's trying to be a father, and I can't fault him for that."

"Are you saying that you're going to obey him Slater thundered.

"Of course not!" Jessie said quickly "But I do: want to antagonize him, either. Not to mention the I don't want Mom and Dad to fight again So-

Slater's face was stony "So?"

"So maybe we could just cut back on see each other, just a little bit" When Jessie said Slater's face she hurnedly added, Just for a week or maybe two. That's all."

"That's all," Slater said fatly

ent [ Jessie said nervously

"Slater said in the same flat tone. But fury - in his veins. "Maybe we should go all the essie. Let's do what Daddy wants. Let's not ach other at all."

inter turned on his heels and stalked away. gard Jessie calling him tears in her voice, but an't turn around. Finally her voice just and away

Zack had a surfing lesson scheduled with Cody at beach, but he canceled it as soon as he got mething's come up, Cody," he told him. he we can do it on Saturday "

Sure," Cody agreed. "I'm glad you came down - beach, though. I wanted to talk to you about mething wrong?" Zack asked "I thought she thrilled with the letters."

dy looked uncomfortable "Well, yeah, But I minimg that maybe we should cool it a little. an it's like she's getting more in love with me - day And it's not me, you know?"

are it is. Zack reassured him. "I'm just putato words how you feel "

as looked away down the beach "Yeah, well.

Anyway Phew. You know what I mean?"

"Sure I do, Cody," Zack agreed patiently Some times conversing with the guy was like dropping into a language class in Urdu.

'So you'll cool it?' Cody asked. "Like, not a letter every day or anything. Maybe a couple a week. I just don't think it's such a hot idea anymore So . . . just, you know, taper them off "

Sure Zack said soothingly

"Cool You're a pal. Well I'd better hit waves right?" Cody picked up his surfboard, no. ded a good-bye at Zack, and jogged toward the ocean

Zack turned and headed back to his ear. He never would have thought that Cody could be so a worrywart. He hadn't thought that the guy wried about anything. Cody's strength was his hear not his mind. Zack had just written another letter Kelly last night, and even he had to admit he surpassed himself. It was so beautiful that even had felt a little teary eved. He couldn't slow downow. He was just getting started. Cody would figet his hesitations when Kelly gazed at him withose big blue eves and told him what a great parker.

Meanwhile Zack had work to do The job a hand required a little rummaging in his fathercloset And he had practicing to do Tomorrow was the start of the Del Oho Campaign, and preparation was key in his way home. Zack stopped by Kelly's house slipped another love letter into her mailbox

Sater found a parking spot a few blocks from the tee. The package was ready when he reached the ater and the store had a record of his mother's ment. The saleswoman smaled and wished him od day. Everything had gone like clockwork. Slater wanted to stamp his feet and scream in tration.

the'd spent a large portion of the last couple of the being angry at Jessie. But that anger had show been enjoyable, too. He'd known it is dlead to an argument full of quips and wise-as, and he'd even grown to like having Jessie lam with a good insult while her eves glanted as at him. The arguments had become truly able when they'd started dating, because ang up had become vastly more interesting.

was a new experience. He felt a horrible burnensation in his stomach. He wanted to run hard be beach or scream his head off or punch a wall be knew none of those things would make him better. Worst of all not even seeing lessie id make him feel better. She'd hurt him too much, and she couldn't take that away

As Slater headed back toward his car, he passed a new restaurant that had opened recently, and ha steps slowed. The place had already been featured in several newspapers, and all the reviews said a had terrific food. Slater pansed felly to look at the menu, it wasn't too expensive, and from what he could see through the window, the inside looked remantic but not too intimidating. It would be a perfect place to take Jessie for a special evening.

With a stab of pain, Slater remembered that he'd just broken up with her Sighing, he was just starting to walk away when someone familiar caught he eye. Slater turned back. A tall, attractive man was being led to a table by the hostess. Next to him was a pretty blond woman in a leather skirt and silt blouse. Slater realized with a slow sense of shock that the man was Jessie's father Quickly Slater ducked into the shadow of an auning. Maybe Mr. Spano was on a business dinner he speculated. But something about the womawas familiar. He'd seen a picture of her before Then he understood. It was Leslie, Mr. Spano's new wife!

Maybe they aren't really together. States thought. It could just be an innocent meeting i they were getting a divorce, like Mr Spano said there must be things they had to talk over no's hand. She leaned across the table, and he ned across to meet her. They kissed. It wasn't a ndly peck, either. It was definitely a major kiss kiss between two people in love.

But just then, Leslie reached over and took Mr.

Slater slowly moved away. It looked like the spees of Mr. and Mrs. Spano getting back tother were zilch. Meanwhile, Mr. Spano was lead-

Jessie and her mother on. He was a uble-dealing creep. And the only person who we the truth was Slater. Now he'd have to break news to Jessie. And in doing so, he just might tak her heart

* Y A

The next morning. Zack was up and dressed and a of the house before his parents were. He had be his investigative work the day before, talking to the Grayson, who just might be his main rival for ores's affections. Binky wore a blazer and slacks whool every day, and he claimed not only to have ten caviar but to have liked it. Dolores actually be misguided enough to consider him snave. Binky had let it slip that Dolores liked to walk ugh the park on the way to school. Zack drove re, parked his car, and hurried over to the exit would be the most convenient way to Bay-

Binoculars around his neck, he ambled down topath and back again, checking his watch. He was beginning to despair when he finally saw Dolorcoming toward him, dressed in a silk pantsuit in deep purple shade

She smiled in a friendly way as she came ...
"Well, hello," she said warmly

Zack looked surprised, then a bit affronted a nodded stiffly. "Goot morning," he said. Then a put the binoculars to his eyes and studied the tree

"We met yesterday," Dolores explained. "I -Dolores Del Olio. The new transfer student is member?"

"Excuse me, we have not met, madame," Zasaid in Rosma's accent. "I vould remember am sure."

Now Dolores looked confused. "But I have re you wait a second. You have an accept now Zack turned and looked at her I have alwahad an accent, 'he said "But I begin to see ) must have met my cousin, Zack Morris, ves?"

Now, Dolores looked even more confused 1 -

"He goes to Bayside High I go to ze Kings":
Academy, Zack said, naming a posh processhool "Zack ees ze family cutup, I zink phrase is. No?"

Dolores nodded. "So I've heard. And you are Zack cheked his heels. "Rupert Morris at viservice, madame." Dolores flashed a pretty dimple in her left cheek. "You seem very different from your nusin."

Zack leaned over and kissed her hand. "Ah, matame. You haf no idea," he said.

When he straightened, he saw that his plan was already working. Dolores had a definite gleam of interest in her eyes. She took in his silk ascot and hiszer as she sidled closer

"Are you a bird-watcher?" she asked, indicating

I find cet interesting," Zack said. "Of course, ze birds in Europe are different, so I learn something new every day." He looked into her eyes. "I miss ze teetle birds," he murmured throatily.

"How sad," Dolores said. "Which leetle—I mean, little—bird do you miss the most?"

Zack thought fast. "In my country

Which is?"

'Studovia It ees small republic near Czechoslozloa, Austria and, uh, Belgium My father, ze wint, was exiled from the country when I vas a small boy "

'How sad "

Yes. I remember so vell outside ze palazzo ze pace-throated warbler. Singing his leetle heart out Such a pretty lootle bird."

I lived in Europe, too," Dolores said, moving

"Vere?"

"All over." Dolores gave a deep sigh. "I miss it so!"

"Ah, yes," Zack said. "Monte Carlo, ze Mediterranean, ze South of France!"

"Vienna, Lake Lucerne, Paris!"

"Ze Pyrenees!"

"The Apennines!"

"Ze running of ze bulls!"

"The dancing in the streets?"

Zack took her hand. "You understand, I theenk." She bowed her head. "I do."

"Ve are both lonely," Zack said, drawing closer "Yes," Dolores whispered.

"Miss Del Olio . . . Dolores—" But weit, Zack thought. She's not supposed to fell for Rupert

"Yes?" she asked breathlessly

"I vant you to meet my cousin"

Dolores took a step backward. She smifed. "But I've already met him, remember?"

"I mean, really meet him," Zack said urgently
"You see, Zack ees misunderstood. You must un derstand, he ees a role model to me."

"Oh, Rupert," Dolores said. "That's funny."

"I do not see what ees funny about it," Zack

Dolores giggled, "Well, Zack Morris is a boy She took a step closer to him again. She tossed a lock of flaming hair out of her eyes. "You're a man she cooed. Uh-oh It looked like his act was working too well. The plan was to get Dolores to think that Zack was the man for her. Even though there was nothing Zack liked better than being on the receiving and of that melting look in Dolores Del Oho's gorgoots topax eyes, he wanted the receiver to be Zack, not Rupert

Zack backed away nervously. "Look at ze time I must get to ze academy. Zey are so strict. But I will be in the park zees afternoon. Perhaps I vill see may here."

Perhaps," Dolores said fliritatiously. She wagmed her fingers in a wave and headed off down the math. As soon as she was out of sight, Zack ripped fit his ascot, shoved the blazer into his pack, and miled on the cotton sweater he had stowed away for was awfully glad to get rid of Rupert. The guy mas such a phony. Zack was definitely the better man. And the sooner that Dolores realized it, the

Chapter 7

Over the next few days, Zack met Dolores in the park every morning and after school. He boned a on polo and race-car driving and European geography, and so far, he hadn't slipped up

The danger came when Dolores asked him t walk her to school. Zack couldn't refuse, and it was a huge challenge to keep out of sight without bear obvious about it. The binoculars helped. Every tin he thought he saw someone he knew, he put then to his eyes, swiveled away, and started talkin, madly about the puce-throated warbler.

The only problem was, his plan wasn't working Dolores continued to adore Rupert and think Zach was a jerk. No matter how Cousin Rupert praised Zock, she didn't change her mind. She just kept saying how much she admired his family lovality even to the black sheep.

Black sheep," Zack mumbled as he made his down the hall of Bayside High. "Hah!" At Kelly was still crazy about him. Of course, she ht she was crazy about Cody, but that was a minor detail. The other day, Cody had asked to stop writing the letters completely, and Zack mosed he would have to. But first he wanted to were a couple of letters he'd already written were his finest ever, and he was too proud of not to give them to her wasn't deluded enough to think that he had milk on the string. But he did—sort of. If only would realize that he was the one they were about. It was a dilemma, that was for sure lack was so intent on his dilemma that he almost meet into Mr. Belding, who was standing outer the home ec room, shaking his head

What's the matter, Mr. Belding?" Zack asked at the microwave over a explode again?"

No. Zack, it's worse than that," Mr. Belding with a frown. "Last time it was an accident sech didn't mean to explode those burritos. But a lot of strange things have been happening urpose

A'hat do you mean?" Zack asked curiously somebody took all the labels off the cans," Mr ing said, indicating the home ec shelves. "Now Worinski doesn't know what's in them. She'll to open every single can. Probably most of the will spoil, too."

"It was just a stupid prank," Zack said. "There the big game coming up with Valley High harm the school can get pretty crazed."

Mr Belding shook his head. "This isn't an is lated prank, Zack. Yesterday someone let out all air in the basketballs in the gym. And the is before, someone switched all the price sticken the school store. Daisy Tyler bought a notebook lifteen dollars, and Toby Malone got a pocket callator for a dollar ninety

"Whoa," Zack said. "I've got to check this on Mr. Belding gave him a severe look changed the prices back again, Zack." Then a frowned. "I'm worried. The thing about pranks that they can escalate. And sometimes people aget hurt. You don't happen to know anything also these incidents, do you?" Mr. Belding gave him meaningful look

Zack held up his right hand. "I swear. I would do anything like this. Mr Belding Even I'm this had. I wouldn't want to drive Mrs. Wozan and the coach crazy. I just like driving you craze

Mr Belding sighed. "I know. It's not your sta-Well, let me know if you bear anything." He as bled off worriedly

Zack pecked into the home ec room, where Market and a student assistant were empty the cans into plastic containers and labeling the lit looked like the prankster had gotten the results wanted—teacher and principal aggravation.

was unhappy. He mooned around the school big worried frown on his face, making everybe worry, too. There would be a black cloud

Bayside High for weeks unless someone could the prantster

lever. Someone with just as devious a mind.

Lack pictured capturing the prankster. It was ably someone huge, like Butch Henderson, the mck, or someone menacing, like Denny Vane, class hood. Only this guy would be worse. Zack id just see himself holding the scary guy by the adoringly. Dolores would realize that Rupert right—Zack wasn't the troublemaker she into he was. And Kelly would see that it takes not muscles, to be truly macho.

of course, the only flaw in the fantasy was instead of no girls. Zack would have two at But that was one problem he could definitely

Kelly tried to concentrate, but her thoughts flew the Industrial Revolution straight to the love lation Cody Durant had caused in her life She eased Cody's latest letter out of her and book and smoothed it into her open textbook is read over her favorite part again.

There are early mornings a the beach when the fog hasn' lifted yet. Everything gray and the air is full mist. And then the sun breakthrough. A shaft of light reflects off my board, and diamonds dance on the ocean That's the only way I can describe how I felt when you came into my life.

Kelly touched the letter with her fingers. Con was such a special guy. He saw things and ithings in such a deep way. Now that she'd read letters, she realized that she hadn't really knowhim at all before

The only weird thing. Kelly thought with frown, was that the romance in the letters dain really spill over into their time together. At first had, but lately, Cody hadn't been very romants all. If she hadn't gotten his letters, she might had thought that he was falling out of love. But that was impossible. His letters told her that.

Maybe something was wrong in his life. He must be a problem that he was afraid to talk to her stout. How sweet of him not to want to burden me, telly thought with a happy sigh. But she had to now him that she wanted to share everything with me-even problems. Now that their love was so teep, he had to know that trust went along with that. Besides, the difference between Cody in his beers and Cody in person was driving her nuts!

Miss Kapowski?" Mrs. Wentworth frowned

Kelly felt as though she'd been pulled out of a beam. She blinked up at the teacher. "Uh, yes, Wentworth?"

l asked you a question. Describe labor relations

Gee," Kelly said. "All I know is that when my mem was in labor, my dad passed out every time. He has a scar from every single one of my brothers and sisters."

The class rocked with laughter, and Kelly bushed. Mrs. Wentworth glared at her and made nark in her notebook. Kelly sunk down farther in her chair and hid behind her book. If she didn't transition things out with Cody soon, she just raight bank out of school completely

"Slater, you can't ignore me forever ' Jessie 🖘

"I'm not ignoring you, 'Slater said "I'm aveing you He was sitting in a booth at the Max at school. For the past few days he diwrestled whis conscience instead of his teammates, and two found it a whole lot tougher. He just didn't knowhat to do He hated the thought of destroy Jessie's dream.

'Can we talk?' Jessie asked suftly
''l guess we should.'' Slater said

Jessie slid gracefully into the booth opposite from She clasped her hands on the table and look-down at them. I'm sorry," she said. I was wrothe other day. I should have stuck up for you will my dad, no matter what Slater let out a relieved breath "What made --- Jessie smiled. Someone sat me down a showed me the light."

'Kelly?"

She shook her head. No not this time "

Lisa? Zack?" Jessie shook her head again a Slater threw up his hands. Oh no Don't ter m was Screech Annill destroy my faith in the los, the universe."

Jessie grinned. "It was my dad Slater gulped. Your dad?"

I was dragging around for days. I mean 1 a totally miserable. So finally he asked me what and I told him about our fight. He said that agreed with you completely.

He did?"

esse nodded "He said that he never meant that wildn't see you. He just didn't think you were enough for me. But he still trusts my instincts, he admitted that he didn't really get to know very well. He apologized, Slater He said he'd and to conclusions and it wasn't fair. And he said will had a lot to learn about being a dad."

now you'll see me because your dad says it's

Slater asked in disgust

"No I'll see you because I love you and I are that I was an idiot. And I'm asking you to me me for being an idiot, and I won't point out times. I've forgiven you for being an because basically, I'm a nice person."

For an ideot," Slater added with a grin size playfully started to snatch her hand away, he grabbed it and squeezed it. Her fingers and around his. "Okay," he said softly "I for-

- you And I was pretty miscrable, too."

o you see?' Jessie asked happily "My dad is wetty good guy after all " that he shouldn't tell her now They'd just to up, and he at least would have liked to enjoy ensation of having Jessie not be mad at him for more than thurty seconds. But that would be taken the easy way out

"Jessie. I have to tell you something." he slowly. "I was downtown the other day, and I something."

"What?" Jessie asked happily

'Actually, I saw someone. Your dad. In a re-

"You should have said hello," Jessie said. "You would have seen how nice he can be. He promuse me he'd give you a chance '

"It wasn't a good time Slater said.

"Oh. Was he having a business meeting or some thing?"

Slater nodded. "Yeah. Or something'

Jessie stiffened slightly. "Slater, what are yes getting at?"

"Jessie he was with Leslie His wife"

"His ex-wife" Jessie corrected hastily

"They're not divorced yet. Slater pointed of "They're only separated

So? Jessie said storily. Look so he had lunwith Leslie. They probably had stuff to go over about the divorce."

'So what is she doing in Pahsades, Jessie? And they weren't talking about a divorce, I can guarantee it. It looked more like they were talking about a second honeymoon."

Jessie slowly withdrew her hand. "I don't be tree you," she said. "Just because you don't like me dad doesn't mean you have to spread rumors about him."

I'm not," Slater said, "You know I wouldn't do that I'm just telling you what I saw, Jessie, are you worker? Because from where I was standing, it sure indn't look like it. It looked like he's going to reconside with Leslie Jessie stood up, "He's not!" she yelled. Her theeks were flushed, and her eyes were bright He's not, okay? You don't know what you're talking about!" She stopped talking for a minute and boked at him. "I have to go. I'll see you later."

For the third time that week, Slater sat alone and intemplated the highs and lows of his relationship with a fiery, temperamental, stubborn, gorgeous ature named Jessie Spano. Were the highs worth lows? Sure Balancing on a tightrope was definely exhibitating. But these days, he was beging to realize he was working without a net. And re ground below was awfully hard and terribly, membly cold

Chapter 8

While Jessie and Slater were talking inside the Max, Kelly had tracked down Cody just outside the door. "Cody," she called, burrying toward h. "Wait up."

Cody waited. "Hey, Kelly," he said. It wasat exactly an enthusiasite greeting

"I hardly saw you at school today." Kelly sa. She tried not to sound annous, but she was. Something was different, and she couldn't tell who she d worn her prettiest outht today a sky to maskirt and flowered top. She digotten up early wash her hair so that it would have extra shine. She d done everything she could to put that lighback into Cody's eyes, but it obviously hadr worked. He wouldn't even meet her gaze. He wastaring over her head at a palm tree.

What's wrong, Cody?" she asked softly Nothing." he said. "Do you want to get a
"" He started toward the door of the Max

No," Kelly said firmly. She took his arm and led over to a secluded bench in the Max's small ward. "Cody, I know something's wrong, Why I you tell me? Just today you wrote me that you you could share anything with me "ody looked startled. "Today?"

Kelly nodded. "It was a beautiful letter." she I warmly. "I almost ened in study half."

Wait a second. Have you gotten letters this

Kelly nodded, her eyes sharing, "Every single at Each one more precious than the last."

Cody gulped. "And what did I say in today's "er?"

Don't von remember? 'I feel like vour heart exis with mine,' "Kelly quoted "'I can share riting from a bag of potato chips to my deepest exis with you.' "She sighed "That's so true, ody I feel the same way. Since I've been getting sar letters, I've realized what a deep, caring pervou are I mean. I was crazy about you from the enning. But now I realize my feelings were stiv infatuation. Now I know the real you, it 'Kelly said in a throbbing voice "And that's cody I love. Kind, warm, sensi—"

Stop it, Kellyl" Cody put his hands over his ears and rocked back and forth. I can't stance anymore?

"Stand what?' Kelly asked, alarmed

"What3" Cody shouted

"What can t you stand? Kelly repeated

"What?" Cody shouted again 'l can't be. vou'

Gently Kelly removed Cody's bands from ears. "What can't you stand anymore? she

peated patiently

'Kelly I didn't write those letters ' Con blurted "I asked a friend to do it I knew i wanted me to be more comantic and I m just a a romantic-type guy I mean, I m cool kes I've been trained for it You don't turn from cool guy to a mushs guy in a second. So I thous maybe if you got romantic letters, you'd reashow I felt That's how it was in the beginning answay "

Kelly stared at him numbly. She could have believe what she was hearing You didn't wr the letters" she asked faintly

Reluctantly Cody shook his head

None of them?

Cody shook his head again "Well I did sign of them

You mean you didn't even read them?" He shrigged '1 m not much of a reader' Kelly just stared at him. It was like her brain w. , three-second delay She couldn't absorb what saying Cody her Cody, wasn't Cody at all! t been dreaming about a phantom. She'd been e with someone else who?" she demanded suddenly "Who wrote ids looked sheepish 'Gosh, I really can't tell that Kelly It would be like, a bleach of confi -0

Breach Kelly said numbly

Breech?" Cods questioned. "No. not him 1 t even know the guy II wasn't lum I pros you. It was just a buddy helping me out. A Then I asked him to stop and I guess he you asked him to stop? When?"

Like a week ago

t week ago? This was getting worse and se That was just when Cody started being dis with her Now Kelly could admit that he had n distant. She gave him a keen look. "Why did isk him to stop?"

ds looked really uncomfortable "It was too werrd Kelly Like suddenly I was your am guy because I wrote these letters. But it n I me

But Kelly argued you said that you felt things Right"

sare I did

Kelly thought hard. After all, Rosina had told with that Cody was her true love. Maybe it could work out. "Well, I guess it wasn't the worst than, the world," she said slowly. "I mean, it was kind sweet, actually. And after all, I loved you below even got the letters. Maybe we can start all eagain."

Kelly wasn't sure if she could, but she had felmuch for Cody. She couldn't imagine breaking with him. He could apologize, and then she maforgive him. Jessie and Slater did it all the time, athey had a practically perfect relationship. Jeshad told her that just the other day

But Cody's green eves slid away from hers blooked down at his feet. 'Look Kelly' he sa' You are a totally gorgeous dish, that is four And you re probably the meest girl I ve shung out with But this has gotten me all confused. It's not exactly a turn on when your likes your letters better than you, if you know hat I mean "

"But I do like you, Cody," Kelly said, swallow against a lump in her throat. "I do

"I'm not a poet, Kelly," Cody said, shruge:
"I'm just a surfer."

"That's fine," Kelly said. "I'm a cheerleader ... Emily Dickinson."

"Kelly, I've met someone else," Cody said If Kelly thought she'd been shocked before, n - was positively floored. Her mouth dropped

I've met someone else. Cody said in a slightly

I heard you," Kelly said, annoyed. "I just can't eve it. You said you were in love with me!"

I was," Cody said. "But I guess my confidence shot after you got the letters. Anyway. I met cone at the beach, and . . ." His voice trailed off unfortably. "I just think we're too young to be I down," he finished lamely

I don't understand," Kelly said, shaking

Well you see, Kelly adolescence is a time of oration and experimentation." Cody began in informative tone · understand the concept, I just—" Kelly ped. "Where did you hear that, anyway?"

From Zack. 'Cody said. "We're buddies now s a solid guy.'

Kelly nodded slowly "I see."

dy rose. "So no hard feelings?" he asked anx-welly looked up. She felt like she'd been kicked e teeth, but she had her pride. "No hard feel-she told him

She sat on the bench and watched as Cody ked away. He was probably heading for the bach and his new girlfriend. Kelly felt a hot spurt Tody would be loss the two friends pecked at each other, then the documents and sheepishly

I'm crushed," Kelly admitted

Flat as a pancake, Jessie agreed gloomdy a could slip me under a door."

was thinking of a window, actually," Kelly mysteriously. 'Do you think you could do me or? I really need your help."

ead on Jessie said "I've got nothing else to of jealousy rise up inside her. Cody would be lating into someone else's eyes. He'd be kissing some one else. He'd be boring someone else with account of the waves he'd caught that day. He'd giving someone else pointers on her tan.

"Good riddance" Kelly told Cody's retreatmuscular back But she didn't really mean it is of her still loved him. And part of her loved some mysterious writer who claimed to have fifty-tradescriptions for the color of her eyes.

She'd give anything to know who it could be buddy. Cody had said. Someone with a gift for pression, that was for sure.

Lost in thought, Kelly hardly noticed when Jessuddenly burst out of the Max. She stalked do the walk, her ponytail flying. Kelly sprang of the beach and ran after her

"Jessie, hold on!" she said, hurrying up her friend. When Jessie turned, Kelly saw she was upset "What is it? Another fight w Stater?"

"No, it's my last fight with Slater, Jessie of grimly "I've finally come to my senses."

"I just broke up with Cody, too," Kelly said a erably. "Actually, he broke up with me."

Jessie was instantly sympathetic. "That's aw-

Kelly shrugged. "Sure."
"Me, too," Jessie agreed

. v A

essie lived next door to Zack, and they'd been in out of each other's houses since they'd been to when Jessie was ten, Zack had dared her to be the big oak tree just outside his bedroom low. When she'd been too frightened, he'd wid her unmercifully. That might Jessie had gritter teeth and climbed the tree all the way up to sindow. She d burst through the window, mak fack vell in fright. That had evened the score I lessie had been climbing the tree to Zack's in say hello ever since.

Kelly had tried the tree route a few times, but h's bedroom window could be tricky to open, she felt more comfortable with Jessie along Cody's latest love letter securely in her pocket, Kelly climbed the tree after Jessie, scraping her knees in the process.

"I hope this is worth it," she grumbled

"Getting the goods on Zack is always worth it Jessie answered calmly as she swung herself up to a higher branch.

"You're sure he's not home?" Kelly asked wor riedly

"Positive," Jessie said as she reached the thici branch outside Zack's window and gave Kelly . I hand up 'He said he had something to do in the park. Maybe he's jogging."

Jessie hit the window frame in a precise sprethen lifted the window up easily. She stepped is side and Kelly followed. Jessie headed straight for the typewriter on Zack's desk. She rolled a clear sheet of paper into it.

'I feet like Sherlock Holmes, Kelly said nevously

"I think we're more like Inspector Clouseau. Jessie said.

"At least we didn't fall out of the tree "

No ladding," Jessie said. "Now read me a couple of sentences."

Kelly took out the letter 'Dear Kelly' steread, and Jessie responded with a furious pounding on the keys. 'Have I told you that I have fifty three descriptions of the color of your eyes? I dedut think that blue did them justice."

"Oh, brother," Jessie said as she typed
I thought it was romantie," Kelly said in a small nee

Jessie finished typing and ripped the sheet of paper out of the carnage. "Now let's compare the said.

The two girls bent their heads over the papers Look,' Kelly said, pointing, "The Rs are a little faint."

And the top part of the capital K is broken in oth of these," Jessie said. They looked at each other

'He did it, they both said

Jessie sighed "Why would we ever doubt at? Abenever there's a scam Zack is behind at"

Footsteps sounded outside in the faill and they als had time to stare at each other in horror before he door burst open and Zack came in

He was unwinding a silk scarf from around his seek, and when he saw the two girls. he jumped ackward 'You almost gave me a heart attack!' he ned. What are you govs doing here?' He stuffed he scarf into his pocket.

Where were you? Jessie asked, confused. She sok in his blazer and loafers. 'A job interview?"

Never mind that Kelly said furiously She saok the two papers at Zack "I know every ring Zack"

You do?" Zack gulped. "Look, I promise I was going to stop soon. I was! I mean. I m starting to bunkers watching those birds every morning.

"What?" Jessie said

"Don't try to confuse me," kelly said taken, step toward him "I know you wrote those letter for Cody."

Zack's face slowly drained of color "Oh. said. "The letters. Kelly, I was just trying to be Cody out."

"He asked you to stop!" Kelly eried. "And y pust kept going! If you hadn't done that, I must have figured out that he was losing interest in must be a wouldn't have been so surprised when dumped me!"

"He dumped you?" Zack asked incredulous
"That swine!"

"You're the swine, Zack Morris," Kelly stable. "It was a cruel, insensitive thing to do. In were probably laughing the whole time. Produmb Kelly will fall for anything, won't she!"

"No. I---

Kelly tore up the letter and threw the pieces. Zack. Her deep blue eyes were full of tears never thought you could be so mean. Zack." to whispered in a choked voice. "I never thought could be so cruel. Fifty-three different description of the color of my eyes—give me a break!"

Pushing past him, Kelly ran from the room, Jess gave him an accusing look and followed. ** k sat down dazedly on the bed. He shifted miortably, then removed the small hinoculars his rear pocket and tossed them to the floor stared at the empty air where Kelly had stood, wes full of tears.

"A summer sky," he said aloud, "The first stars at 19ht. A robin's egg. A handful of sapplares. A of cornflowers."

Chapter 9

"Screech, could you pass the catsup?" Jesse asked

Screech reached over in front of Slater, look the catsup, and sailed it down the table to Jessie.

"Lisa, can you pass the salt?" Slater asked.

Lisa rolled her eyes, but she grabbed the salterm in front of Jessie and passed it to Slater.

"Lasa, would you tell Zack that Coach Net wants to see him tomorrow morning?" Kelly asked. "He told me to tell him, I don't know why. It's no like Zack and I are friends or anything. Friends treat each other honestly and decently So Zack as I couldn't be friends."

Lisa turned to Zack, but he held up a hand heard. You can thank Kelly for me, if you see her jessie spoke up. "Screech, will you tell Zack tha won't be over to help him with his chemistry omework longht? He'll just have to figure out the periodic table by himself."

Zack, jessie isn't coming over tonight," Screech mid Zack dutifully

"Thanks, Screech," Zack said, "I would have een waiting all night"

Anytume," Screech said, his early head of hair bubbing.

Lisa suddenly slammed her hand down on the able. "I can't stand this!" she exclusioned. "The blaz just isn't the same. Will you guys please make up?"

Kelly and Jessie gave Lisa dirty looks. "Or at least bring your own catsup," Litz said weakly

"Some people don't deserve to be forgiven," celly said, giving Zack a dark glamm.

"That's for sure," Jessie agreed, pointedly not boking at Slater

'I feel like the whole world is falling apart," Lisa waned "All my friends hate each other, there's a boof vandal and the air-conditioning unit is broken at the mall."

Did you hear the latest about the vandal? -reech asked "Today was spagheth and meat hall day—"

"Hey." Slater interrupted, "I didn't get any ceatballs with my spaghetti"

'Why should you?" Jessie said in a low tone

"You already have a meathall for a head."

Screech waved a white napkin in the air "N firing until I finish my story. The reason there were no meatballs is because someone broke into the kitchen and rolled all the meat into one giant meatball. Then they fried it up in a big skillet."

Lisa giggled. "That's kind of funny."

"It could have been, but they left it in the middle of the floor," Screech went on. "Mrs. Vivand tripped over it and sprained her ankle when she came in this morning."

'That's terrible." Jessie and Slater said at the same time. They looked at each other, then quicklooked away

"Why can't anybody catch this guy? Zack, windon't you try?"

Zack shrugged. "I'm sure the prankster will ge caught without my help. Lisa." He didn't want a tip his hand. It would be much better to surprint everyone when he executed another of his brilliant plans and captured the prankster. Zack sneaked a look at Kelly's stony face. It will take more than a brilliant capture to bring Kelly around, he though It will take a buildozer

Besides." Kelly said, "Zack is a champion of making mischief, not solving it

The look sho gave him could turn boiling water into ice cubes in ten seconds. I ought to add Arraice to the list of descriptions of Kelly's eyes, Zad bought. He'd better be on the lookout for that modal. It might not do him any good with Kelly, but a drowning man would grasp at any tiny straw and if he couldn't have Kelly, at least he might be able to impress Dolores After school the next day. Zack was supposed to meet Dolores in the park but not until four-fifteen, to be had a few minutes to wander around the ampty halls just in case the prankster was at work.

This would be a good time for him to strike, Zack thought. There were only a few club meetings scheduled, and they were all on the first floor. The second and third floors were completely empty

Zack prowled the third floor, then the second, then tried the third again. He decided to hit the second one more time. His locker was on that floor, snyway, and he could swing by and pick up his blazer and ascot, then head for the park to meet Dolores the walked softly down the halls, peeking into the empty classmoons. Halfway down the hall, he teard a noise it was a rhythmic squeaking noise, and Zack hoped Screech hadn't let the mice out of the biology lab again. He stopped, listening careally

Zack had no idea what the noise was, but he hurned down the hall, swiftly and silently. He wildefinitely not alone. Something was going on Suddenly he heard a clatter and the noise running footsteps. Zack started to run. He round the corner and stopped. No one was there, but had kicked a felt-tip marker, which skidded as on the floor and but the wall. Zack saw several of markers strewn about and realized what squeaking noise had been Someone had been uing on poster board.

He looked across the hall. Near the entrance the balcony of the auditorium was a buge sign the the pep squad had recently put up. It was a pictor of the Bayside High mascot, a tiger, eating a resteak. Big red letters spelled out maysing mon BEALLY PRIME!

Or, rather, it used to read that Now the letthad been filled in and marked over, the steak a puddle of green coze, and the sign read same unon is REALLY SLIME!

Zack picked up a red felt-tip marker The been just moments away from catching the var-Next chance, he'd be right on time

The sound of footsteps came from behind a Zack whirled around and saw Dolores coming ward him, carrying her books. Her footsteps tered when she saw him, and she stopped

"Zack," she said. "Hi " Her eyes widened a noticed the marker in his hand. Her gaze ditraveled to the wall, where she noticed the poster Then her gaze came back to the aust found it. Zack said 'It was the strangest and Dolores didn't listen. A small squeak essed her, and she turned and ran back the way she decome, her flats slapping against the floor

Puzzled. Zack watched her round the corner hen he looked down at the red marker in his hand over at the sign roaning. Zack slumped against the wall. You thave to be a detective to figure out the evidence. He was at the scene of the crime, and he was the ting the weapon. Dolores thought he was the and vandat!

When Zack arrived at the park, still trying to the wrt's ascot. Dolores was pacing back and forth the path

Oh, Rupert!" Dolores cried, running toward

She threw herself in his arms. "I'm so glad to

Zack smelled musky perfume and felt the softness Dolores's hair against his fingers. He slipped his around her and patted her back. He had been ming to get Dolores in exactly this position for the hadn't wanted it to be for this reason

'Vat ees it?" he asked "Ees somethink wrong?

'I was so frightened. Dolores said clutche him with anxious fingers. 'I thought I was going faint!"

"Calm down now Zack said with a nervochuckle "I am sure eet can't be zat bad."

'Oh but it is' Dolores said carnestly. Her top, eves were very wide. I caught the school vand. And it's your cousin. Zack!"

"No! Zees cannot be'

I'm sorry, Rupert," Dolores said. "But it is told you that your cousin was a troublemaker. It is his reputation at Bayside High. He's the one who is been doing all those terrible things at school. I caught him red-handed. Literally!

but I am sure you must be mistaken-

Dolores shook her head. She gripped his shoulders even harder. Zack winced

'No she said "I saw him with a red marker—his hand. He had just brushed defacing a sil. There was an evil, guilty look on his face—I'll never torget it. She shuddered. I thought I will in danger."

"Do,ores Dolores, Zack chided alarmed 1not be silly Come sit down. He led her gently a not be silly Come sit down. He led her gently not be silly Come sit down. He led her gently not be been be seen. "Now," he said when they were seating let us look at zees. Perhaps Zack had happened!
not picked up ze marker. Zen, poof—you theenk he not ze criminal. That happens all ze time.

Maybe on TV ' Dolores said dulnously

But I know my cousin. Zack said desperately lack Morris ees a fine, upstanding citizen. A manual reliable, uh—all-around great guy, as zey say the 1 do not think eet could be him. No Dolores, as are wrong. Definitely,

Dolores looked at him with shining eves "Ob, pert, she said "Your lovalty is so impressive"

It ees not loyalty," Zack said quickly, almost sang his accent in his excitement. "It ees just nowledge of my cousin's character. He ees not apable of thees kind of thing

Dolores only sighed. "Rupert," she said, patting arm, "you're just so wonderful."

Zack gave up. He saw there was no way he could avince her "Dolores, you must promise me method." he said. Say nothink I vill talk to my sain. He saided. You will promise me zees?"

think eet is better this way No?

"I guess so.

Zack similed at her uneasily. He'd really gotten unself into a mess now. It was all Rupert's fault thought annoyed He d have to give that continual crank a talking to

Vatees it?" he asked "Ees somethink wrong?

'I was so frightened.' Dolores said clutche him with anxious fingers. 'I thought I was going faint!"

"Calm down now" Zack said with a nervous chuckle "I am sure eet can't be zat bad."

'Oh, but it is' Dolores said carnestly. Her top, eves were very wide. I caught the school vanda. And it's your cousin. Zack'''

"No' Zees cannot be'

I'm sorry, Rupert," Dolores said. "But it is I told you that your cousin was a troublemaker. I'his reputation at Bayside High. He's the one who been doing all those terrible things at school caught him red-handed. Laterally!

But I am sure you most be mistaken-

Dolores shook her head. She gripped his shoulders even harder Zack winced

'No she said "I saw him with a red marker his hand. He had just boushed defacing a sail. There was an evil, guilty look on his face—I'l never torget it. She shuddered. I thought I will in danger."

"Do,ores Dolores," Zack chided, alarmed 1not be silly Come, sit down. He led her gently to a bench. "Now," he said when they were seated "let us look at zees. Perhaps Zack had happened I and picked up ze marker. Zen, poof—you theenk by ees ze criminal. That happens all ze time

Maybe on T\ 'Dolores said dubiously

But I know my cousin. Zack said desperately 'ark Morris ees a fine, upstanding citizen. A material rehable, uh—all-around great guy as zev say see. I do not think eet could be him. No, Dolores as are wrong. Definitely Dolores looked at him with shiming eves "Oh, mert, she said "Your lovalty is so impressive"

It ees not levalty. Zack said quickly almost any his accent in his excitement. It ees just awledge of my cousin's character. He ees not mable of thees kind of thing.

Dolores only sighed 'Rupert' she said, patting arm 'vou're just so wonderful'

Zack gave up He saw there was no way he could ry mee her "Dolores, you must promise me method, he said "Say nothink I yol talk to my isin." He smiled, "You vill promise me zees?"

she nodded "If you want me to. Rupert I think eet is better this way No?

"I guess so

Zack smiled at her uneasily He'd really gotten unself into a mess now. It was all Rupert's fault thought, annoyed. He d have to give that contimutal crank a talking to

"This has gone far enough," Slater said to Jesse
"You're coming with me"

Jessie tilted her head back and put her hands on her hips. "Who's going to make me?" she demanded.

Slater didn't answer. Instead, he picked her up a his arms and carried her, protesting auguly, to he hig old Chevy "Slater, put me down!" Jessie velled. "You can't do this!"

Slater dumped her into the front seal. "I just did momma"

Jessie glared at him through the front windshield as he made his way to the driver's seat. She was furious, but she didn't slide out and stalk away. Part of her was glad Slater had finally forced her to talk to him again. But part of her was still angry

Slater drove through the streets of Palisades we silence. If he wasn't going to talk, she wouldn't either Jessie crossed her arms and stared out the window

She thought be'd drive to the beach, their favorite place to talk, but instead. Slater drove downtown. Jessie was longing to ask where they were going, but she took one look at Slater's set face and clamped her mouth shut

Finally Slater eased the car into a parking spot on a downtown street. Jessie couldn't stand it am longer May I ask where we're going?" she asked in an tone

You can ask," Slater said. "But I won't

He got out of the car, crossed to the passenger ite, and hauled her out. He kept her hand securely his as he led her down the street to an elegant site. Jessie felt her heart soften. He was going to not her to a nice meal out! That was such a sweet my to apologize for being such a complete and tter slune hall. It was just like Slater

But that didn't mean she had to melt immediely. Jessie was silent and stiff as the hostess led em to a table by the window. Stater shook his ed and pointed to another table in the corner. A rge palm stood near it, shielding it from the rest the diners. It was completely private and very manue.

Jessie slid into the chair. "This is nice she said udgingly

Yeah," Slater said. He picked up his menu, but didn't look at it. He drummed on the table nerusly and looked around at the other diners

Jessie opened the menu and studied the list of onces. Everything looked delicious. She was defing between a spinach salad with strips of spicy eken breast and a little pizza with roasted pepers when Slater put his hand on her arm

So, Jessie said. "You finally want to apolo-

"Shihh," Slater said. He put his linger to his lig-Then he pointed through the leaves of the palm Giving him a puzzled look, Jessie leaned forward and looked through the leaves. She gasped who she saw her father threading through the laboration of the same was a blood amount of the leaned over and kissed Leslie gently the lips.

lessie looked at Slater. "You see?" he salesoftly. His soft brown eyes were full of sorrow didn't he."

Slowly Jessie lifted her napkin from her lap. Spent a long time folding it in precise creases, ranning a thumbnail along them. Then she placed back on her plate. Finally she looked up at Slamwith bleak eyes

"No," she said quietly. "You showed me that y a didn't. Are you happy now, Slater?"

Then she rose and walked out of the restauraher head held high. Her father had his back to he and was ordering a bottle of wine, so he didn't se her at all

Chapter 10

That night Kelly checked on her littlest brother billy. He was sleeping peacefully, his little hand aried up into a fist. Her brother Kyle was doing his bronework, Kerry and Erin were watching TV, and wicki, her fifteen-year-old sister, was in her room ecently Nicki had renounced being a tomboy and ad embraced being a girl, and now she spent her ghts studiously trying on makeup and clothes.

Mr and Mrs Kapowski were out at a movie and Kelly was in charge. Normally it was a dubious tonor, but tonight Kelly was glad of the responsibility it was a relief to have her brothers and sisters aworry about. She didn't have to think about her was problems.

The only problem was that nobody needed her might, and there was nothing to do. Nobody was fighting, Billy wasn't crying, and the dishes we done. There was nothing to do but go to her and finally do what she had been putting of evening long.

Kelly closed the door and slipped the packagletters out from underneath her pillow. She a cross-legged on the bed, untied the like ribbon, a sat for a moment with the letters in her lap. The with a deep sigh, she slipped out the first letter a began to read

For the next hour, Kelly sat and read and reservery single letter. For the first time, she read words without thinking about Cody. This time at thought about who really had written them.

When she finally had finished, she sat quest staring at the letters in her lap. The beautiful wistill fitted in her head like butterflies. Could Zer really have written these? How could she know his so long and so well . . . and not know him at all thought not so much of his words of love but.

Kelly went over the letters in her mind. 9.
Zack's descriptions of what he thought and in.
And even though she was still angry at him, to had to admit to herself that sincerity rang through every line.

Zack hadn't written these letters just as a farto Cody. They were too meaningful, too special She had loved them for real reasons. They were glib or insincere. She had fallen in love with writer because of that Lelly slowly gathered up the letters and tied in a bundle again. Yesterday she had almost sed every one of them to shreds, and now she glad she hadn't. Maybe, just maybe, they were spering a message to her that she shouldn't ould Zack have written those letters if he didn't care? And if he did still care, did he know it? we could he have written them if he did? He had ten the words of love that were supposed to er her straight to Cody Durant selly sighed and flopped back on the bed. She sered the lilac ribbon. There were so many tanring questions! Maybe it was time she found out

Slater left three messages at Jessie's with her her last Jessie never called back. At school she and her disappearing act again. Finally he corred her by her locker at the end of the day

Look," he said awkwardly. "I'm sorry about 'erday. Really sorry. I should have warned you wouldn't stay."

You're right," Jessie said tonelessly. "I probar wouldn't have."

Slater moved closer and tried to touch her but Jessie pulled away. "What I can't figure out" Jessie said. "is why you'd want to hurt to

"I don't want to hurt you". Slater exclaimed like that frustration. 'I want to help you face reality!"

Jessie bit her lip. "Look Slater Maybe that true And you're right-1 have to sort some thin... out I really need some time to myself."

He stared at her for a long second. He couldn believe this was happening again. "You won't in me help vou?' he said. Jessie stared at him muter her deheate skin flushed. Slater felt as though he been kicked in the stomach 'Okay "he said final. "If that's what you want. No problem."

Jessie sighed "Oh Slater" she murmured "Iso tired of lighting with you."

"I know what you mean" Slater responde tightly. They stared at each other for a momen then looked away

'I guess there's nothing more to say " Jessie say Gnally

Slater nodded stiffly "Guess not"

"Do you want to go to the Max?" Jessie asked told Lisa 1 d meet her there."

'Why not?" Slater said tersely

They walked to silence to the Max There wa such a muxture of anger and sadness in how the felt that neither one of them could say anything a all Words had become time hombs and neither one of them would risk blowing everything copletely to hits.

With relief Jessie saw Lisa's simbing face at the Max Screech and Kelly were there, too With all their friends around them, she and Slater wouldn't have to talk at all.

Lisa was talking about the school vandul as Slater and Jessie sal down 'Everyone was waiting to see what he d do today " she said, twirling a straw in her soda 'I mean, defacing the poster was small change. I thought for sure we'd see something more amazing.

"I'm glad we didn't," Screech said. "I had a mghtmare about the grant meatball. I dreamed that Virs Vivandi made me cat the whole thing."

Everyone laughed. 'You'd need a really huge Alka-Seltzer for that." Slater observed

"Today was Deli Dav in the cufetena," Screech said "I'm really glad I won't dream about giant mishes tonight"

'This guy is getting out of hand." Slater remarked "The football team is completely spooked Everyone is afreed the prankster is going to do something drastic on Saturday during the big zame "

"This is awful," Kelly said. "We've just got to best Valley High!"

"We have to do something, 'Lisa declared | 1 have a new dress for the Victory Dance and I don't want anything to spoil it "

"So let's catch the vandal,' Slater proposed "! have a theory

"Great," Kelly said. "What is it, Slater?"

"I think I know where the vandal is going strike next "Slater said leaning over the table as Inwering his voice. "The prop room. It makes sen-What better way to strike than to mess with decorations for the rally and the big game?"

"I bet you're right, Slater," Lisa said, noddi-"That's the logical place to strike next."

"So what should we do?" kelly asked

"Stake it out." Slater said with a shrug. "After school on Friday, everyone always clears of school I bet that's when the prankster w

Count me in ' Kelly said

"Me, too." Lisa declared

Everyone looked at Jessie "Count me in the she said with a shring Everyone looked at Screech "I'd say count rtn fno, 'he saud. 'but I've fost count'

"Where's Zack?" Slater asked. "He li want to on this

"He's never around lately 'Jessie said

'I've hardis seen him, Lisa said

'I tried to track him down after school," ke said "I really need to talk to him

He's been superbusy, Screech said with an a of authority. "He told me all about it."

*What do you mean Screech? * Kelly queries "What's he been doing?

Screech went blank "I don't know what he's ang. He just told me all about how busy he was. e dicin t say with what "

Thanks. Screech. That's a big help," Slater said Dolores Del Olio approached their table hesi antly ' Hi, she said softly "Would you guys mind I sat down for a minute?

'Sure Dolores "Slater said in a friendly way. He roved over so that Dolores could all next to him esse frowned but quickly turned it into a welcomsmile when Slater looked at her

'Hi, Jessie said. 'I'm Jessie Spano."

Everyone else introduced themselves, and plores nodded at all of them "I ve seen you guys round," she said sholy "You seem really nice, and know I can (rust you "

Of course you can Dolores," Slater said. What's the problem?"

Well. Dolores said. 'I saw something the other tay Someone was doing something bad. I don't ant to go to the principal and get this person in rouble. So I thought if I just went to this person's mends, they could get this person to stop doing it Do you know what I mean?"

The gang exchanged glances "I think so," Kelly and 'But it would help if you could tell us who the person is and what they've done "

'Okay ' Dolores took a deep breath. "I saw the school vandal," she said in a husbed tone Everyone leaned closer to Dolores. "Who is it? Kelly breathed.

"It's Zack Morris," Dolores said

Everyone gasped. Then they exchanged shocked glances.

"No way," Lisa said

"It can't be," Kelly protested

"I don't believe it," Jessie scoffed

"Even I don't believe it," Slater declared

Screech only gulped, "I'm speechless," he said "I know I'm talking right now, but I am "

"It's true," Dolores insisted. "I caught him red handed. He was defacing that sign yesterday. You know, 'Bayside High Is Really Shine'."

"It just can't be Zack," Kelly said

Dolores looked puzzled. "I don't understand why you guys are so surprised. I thought Zack was a rea troublemaker."

"Well, he is," Kelly admitted. "But he's not that kind of troublemaker. He might have a scam that gets out of hand, but he never deliberately sets out to destroy something."

"He's kind of hard to explain," Jessie said

Dolores stood up, "Well, I just wanted to tell you. I'm not going to go to Mr. Belding or anything But Zack just has to stop."

"We'll tell him, Dolores," Lisa promised.

Dolores nodded and walked away. There was a long silence at the table

Zack has been acting weird lately," Jessie said besitantly

"Every time you ask him where he's going after school, he won't give you a straight answer," Slater said

"He just did something to me that I'd never have imagined in a million years," Kelly admitted softly

"Well, even if he is acting weird, he's certainly dressing better," Lisa put in. "I saw him wearing the prethest silk scarf around his neck yesterday after school. I asked him where he got it, but he practically ran away."

"So who's going to tell him that we know?"
Slater asked gloomly

"We don't know," Jessie pointed out quickly. Dolores could be wrong,"

"But she said she caught him red-handed," Kelly and. "It's so strange."

Suddenly Screech stood up. His face was red, and his hands were elenched. "I can't believe you people. You think he's guilty!"

"No, we don't, Screech," Kelly told him. "We're just . . . wondering."

"Maybe Zack is having personal problems that we don't know about," Jessie said doubtfully

"Look. Screech," Slater said. "We won't say anything to Zack, but we'll follow through on our plan to stake out the prop room. That way, if he's guilty, at least we'll be the people who catch him."

"He won't be there" Screech insisted.
Slater shrugged 'Okas he won't. But then we'll know!"

"You'll all see," Screech said. "You'll see the be's innocent." He turned and ran out of the Max hus purple-striped shirt streaming behind him

. v .

Sunk in gloom, Screech ignored the bus and walked all the way home from the Max. He just couldn't believe that Zack was the culput. Zack was his buildy. He looked up to him. How could be be the giant meatball maker? Knowing Zack if he had done it, he would have confessed as soon as befound out about Mrs. Vivandi's sprained andle

As Screech turned the corner onto his block, he saw a group of boys sitting on a front fawn. It was his neighbor. Andy Noland and his best friend Sandy and Bobby, also known as Bobo. All threwere freshmen at Bayside High. They were definitely geeks and Screech knew they looked up to him as the ultimate, cool older man.

"Hi, guys," he greeted them as he walked by "Hey, Screech," Andy said. "Have you seen tha weird guy hanging around school lately?"

Screech stopped. "What weird guy?"

"Bobo talked to him one day," Andy said. "And Sandy saw him." "He was way at the end of the block near inhool," Sandy said. "And I saw him in the park, too. He had binoculars."

"He was a totally weird guy," Bobo said. "He had a weird accent. He said his name was something weird—oh, Rupert. A real weirdo. It was like, really, I don't know—"

"Weird?" Screech supplied

Bobo nodded solemnly, "Exactly, He looked familiar, too."

You keep saying that, Bobo," Andy said in exasperation. "I wish you'd remember who he looked like."

"I know what Bobo means, though," Sandy said. I think he looked like Rex Harrison.

Who's Rex Harrison?" Andy asked

"You know, the British guy," Sandy said. "The actor. He was in whatchamacallit, that old movie, you know, where he teaches the girl how to talk night? It's a musical. Or maybe I'm thinking of Laurence Ohvier."

"Who?" Bobo said.

"The only British guy I know is Queen Elizabeth," Andy said.

Screech cleared his throat "When did you first see the weard guy?"

Bobo and Sandy looked at each other, "A couple of weeks ago, I think," Bobo said, and Sandy nod-ded, "Or maybe the beginning of this week." Sandy nodded again.

"Very interesting," Screech marmured. He turned back to the boys. "Now, look, I don't want you guys to worry. I'll keep an eye out, okay? If the guy is trouble, he'll have to deal with Samuel E. Powers first." Screech hurried away, his long skinny legs propelling him home

He closed the door to his house with an emiltani bang. This was some piece of news! This strange had shown up right when the pranks began. And even Bobo had said he was weird. This guy Rupert must be the culprit!

Screech bounded upstairs to his room to get his Sherlock Holmes hat. The game was aloot, and he knew exactly how to trap the master criminal He would catch Rupert and clear Zack's name for good!

Chapter 11

That evening Jessie told her mother that she was ang to the city library to research a term paper but instead she drove north along the beach road til she got to the Palisades Beach Resort Hotel Jessie turned into the curving drive of the hotel The long, low stucco building was glowing faintly ak in the sunset Palm trees waved around it, and the lush green lawn was like a soft carpet leading to the front door

Jessie parked the car and walked inside to the bibby She headed straight for the big staircase and tarted up. She already knew her father's suite number—207—from calling him that week. The om was all the way at the end of the second-floor midor. Jessie heatated only a minute, then brocked sharply

In only a few seconds, the door opened Leshe stood there staring at her ' Jessie, ' she su'' Very good. Leshe, Jessie said crisply

Concern crossed Leslie's face "I was just sprised, that's all Come on in 'She led the way the spacious living room of the suite "Alex called. "I think you'd better come out."

"I'm on the phone," he called

"I think you'd better hang up. 'Leslie caback, her eyes on Jessie's face

"What is it, sweet—" Jessie's father stopper he walked into the room and saw Jessie. "I was not the phone with your mother." he told her walked toward her and kissed her cheek. Jessieod stiffly, not responding.

I didn't expect to see you tonight.
Spano said

"I'll bet," Jessie said. Her eves flicked over . Leslie

Leshe bent over and picked up her purse think I'll go get a cup of coffee ' she said soft-

The door closed behind her, and Jessie and a father stared at each other "Will you sit dopumpkin?" he asked gently

Jessie flinched "Don't call me that she sa But she let him lead her to one of the soft aprocouches by the fireplace

"Your mother called because she was worrabout you," her father said "She says you ve beatty depressed this past week. At first she might it was because of an argument with Slater at she's been going over in her mind some things two said lately and she thinks you might be ping that we'll get back together. Is that true ssie?"

lessie looked at the fire. She wasn't ignoring her there she just couldn't answer him because a up the size of a hasketball was in her throat. She ugged

If I gave you that impression. I'm sorry her her said sectionsly "I never thought that after a.

se years, you'd still be hoping"

Jessie found her voice "But. Duddy you said a were separated from Leslie," she said Ari: u and Mom seemed so happy to be with the ther father clasped his hands and looked do a mile of the separated from Leshe he with "She left me. And your mother and compare to be with each other. It is the first time dworce that we've really been able to a lat's because of Leshe."

What do you mean Daddy?" Jessie ask ed. You just said that Leshe left via.
Her father sighed. "When Leshe left is same charges against me your moth ars ago. It absolutely shocked me. Jessing to blow another marriage? Hadn t."

117 anything from the first one? So when this deal canup with the Palisades Beach Resort Hotel, I jumpe, at it. I wanted to come back and talk to your mon.

Or rather, I wanted to listen to her. Really listen And I'm ashamed to say that it just might have been for the very first time.

Jessie didn't say anything She could hear topain in her father's voice. And she couldn't believe the pain was from that blond twil, Leslie. He man really love her?

Her father reached over and took her hand. "I -learned some hard lessons this week," he sud "Your mother helped me. And because she did Leshe came back to me. She flew down two da ago and we've been talking ever since. I think we going to make it. She's a special woman, Jessie wish you'd give her a chance."

"She's just an interior decorator," Jessie sawith scorn. "I don't think we have much in our mon." She knew the words were harsh and unlanbut she was so angry that she couldn't control them

Her father didn't pull away or get angry, the washe thought he would. "Do you know that Leashas a master's degree in English literature?" is asked. "Do you know that she started a coalition designers and architects in San Francisco who relaim and renovate houses for the homeless? It you know that when she was sixteen she was as car accident and was told that she'd never wall again?"

No." Jessie whispered. She hadn't known any of those things.

I wish you'd get to know her, Jess," her father and "Do you have so little respect for me that u d think I'd pack a himbo to spend the rest of my afe with?"

anddenly Jessie burst into tears. It was bearing the words opend the rest of my life with. For the list time, she really faced the fact that her father masn't coming back. She cried and cried and just muldn't stop. Her father held her until the tears wed and she started to biccup.

Finally Jessie pulled away. There was a dark spiotch on her father's suit from her tears. "I hope that hotel has valet service," she said, sniffing Your suit is a mess."

Mr. Spano laughed. When he stopped, he muched her cheek tenderly. "I'm so sorry I hurt mu, pumpkin," he said. "I seem to have bungled everything. I know how hard it was for you when I "t—vou were only seven years old. Your mother I were just no good together, and it was starting affect you. So much anger in the house wasn't make up for them. The only thing I can do is the there for you now, as much as I can."

Jessie looked into the fireplace. "I wanted to be amily so much," she whispered

'I know," her father said gently. "And it breaks beart that it's the only thing I can't give you.

But next year, you'll be going to college. You'll become more independent, and you'll start to make your own life. I hope you'll always let use be part of it."

"Of course you'll always be in my life, Daddy Jessie said, turning back to him. "I love you."

"And I love you," her father answered. "I think this deal is going through, so I'll be in Palsades pretty often from now on."

With tears in her eyes, Jessie nodded. "That'll be great," she told him.

He reached out and tucked a lock of hair behind her ear, "Honey, we're still a family," he said. "AL of us. We're just not a very conventional one."

Jessie smiled through her tears. "Well, that ought to suit me," she said, smiling. "Since when have I ever liked anything to be conventional?"

"Now, that sounds like the daughter I know her father said with a laugh, and he caveloped her in a big, satisfying hug.

The next day at school, Screech arrived early. He hurried to the main bulletin board in the front hall where students put up notices to sell skateboards or eatcher's milts, offer typing services, or even leave messages for each other. Everybody usually checked the board once a day to see if anything funny or unusual was there

Screech looked around carefully, then quickly pulled a piece of paper out of his pocket and tucked it to the board. He read it over once, just to be sure that it was perfectly worded

RUPERT, MY MYSTERY MAN, COME TO ME. I'M READY FOR YOUR LOVE. THE PROP ROOM, FOUR P.M.

"That should do it!" Screech murmured. "By four-thirty, 'Zack will be a free man." Then he dashed away

Zack saw the notice on the bulletin board on the way to English class. He did a double take and looked closer. A note for Rupert! It couldn't be. But there it was. Rupert, my mystery man—it had to be Dolores. Just this morning in the park, she had said that she knew so little about him. Apart from the fact that he loved to play polo and always stayed at the Ritz in Paris, of course

She probably figured that Zack would tell his cousin about the note. Under normal circumstances, Zack would be thrilled that the luscious Dolores was ready for Rupert's love. But lately he'd begun to realize that Rupert wasn't ready for hers and neither was Zack

It wasn't that Dolores wasn't gorgeous, or sweeter fun to be with She was all of those things. It was that Zack still had Kelly on his mind. Even thoughe knew that he'd hurt her and blown his chance with her by writing the letters for Cody he strength of the strength of Zack took the card off the bulletin board as crumpled it. He'd have to go, of course But he only meet Dolures to tell her good bye. Studes a had undergone a complete revolution and had a vited the aristocracy back. It was time for Rupert say bon vovage.

"Okay," Screech said. "Let's synchronize o.

watches. I have three fifty-three."

"I don't have a watch, Lisa complained.

"Okay," Screech freited "I'll have to lenyou mine"

"Then how will you know what time it is?" helasked

'I won't be able to see the time, answay Screech said. I'll be in the tiger, and it'll be to dark." He pointed to the large stuffed tiger that was in the middle of the room. Earlier Kelly and Jessehad removed the stuffing. Screech planned to craw inside it—for a perfect biding place.

Then why are we synchronizing our watches?

Because that's what Sherlock Holmes would Screech answered logically. He pointed to s hat

Lisa rolled her eyes "Just he glad he didn't bring he pipe, too, "she murmured to Jessie 'Enough! 'Slater exploded in exasperation "We on't have to know what time it is. We just have to sop out when the prankster comes in Kelly, you get whind those costumes. Lisa you can fit under eath that tarp."

"Ewww" Lisa said "I'll get all dusty"

We all have to make sacrifices." Slater told her ternly "Jessie, you come with me Everybody. arry up!

Slater grabbed Jessie's wrist and pulled her to be utility closet. He shoved her inside, then folwed her. His foot hit a pail, and it clanged.

Shhhh," Jessie whispered

Slater gave her a dirty look and tried to squeeze side the closet. It was an awfully close fit

"Ow," Jessie murmured. "Your elbow is in

'Sorry

Now you're pulling my hair "

Sorry There 'Slater rearranged himself "Is

Jessie nodded. Slater was right against her, toe to we eve to eye. She could feet the skin of his arm against hers, his knees bumping her knees. "I' fine," she whispered weakly

"Fine." Slater swallowed. Jessie was so close And for once, she'll have to keep her mouth shut he thought

Jessie tried to lean back, but there was nowhere to go. Slater was looking at her intently with soft dark eyes. At least he im't allowed to talk. It thought

"I think we'll fit better," Slater whispered, "I you could just move your head a little tiny bit-

"Shhhh," Jessie said

She moved her chin up a millimeter. He moves his head down a millimeter. Their lips met

"I—" Jessie started

"Shihh, Stater urged, "No talking," he who pered. Then his soft mouth descended on her again.

Zack checked his watch. Four o'clock. Right on time. He adjusted his ascot and smoothed his han flat into the conservative Rupert style. He was glad that the school was so empty. It would be imposs, ble to explain this stupid ascot to anyone he knew especially the gang.

Slowly Zack pushed open the creaky prop-room

ioor, then closed it behind him. There were no lights on, and the dusky shadows were a little unnerving. If Dolores was trying to set a romantic mood, she wasn't succeeding. The place looked like a haunted house, not a love nest. Even the Bayside High tiger looked ominous, crouched in the middle of the floor

Zack inched farther into the room. This was positively earle. He peered into the dark shadows 'Come out, come out, wherever you are," he whispered softly

Just then Zack thought he saw something move file turned and saw the tiger lurching menacingly toward him. Zack let out a piercing yell

Then the tiger spoke "Zack, shihh It's Zack sat down heavily on a dusty tarp. A thin aream came from underneath it. What's going on? Zack wondered crazily. Something underneath the tarp was pushing at him

'Get off me!" the turp said.

Zack fell off the turp onto the floor. Lisa poked ber head out. "You crushed me," she wailed, "And besides that, you wrinkled my skirt."

Screech crawled out of the tiger. "Lisa, are you okay? Unhand her, you ead."

"I'm not handing her!" Zack protested. He rubbed his head confusedly. "Would someone please tell me what's going on?"

Kelly stepped out from behind a rack of costumes from the Bayside High Players. Even in the gloom he could see the accusation in her eyes. "Oh, Zack she said. "How could you?"

"I didn't know Lisa was underneath it." Zack said, pointing to the tarp. "I promise."

Kelly shook her head, "You know what I mean You're the Bayside High prankster!"

Chapter 12

Just then Screech turned on the lights. They blazed in Zack's face, and he blinked up at his three interrogators.

"You've got to be kidding," he said.

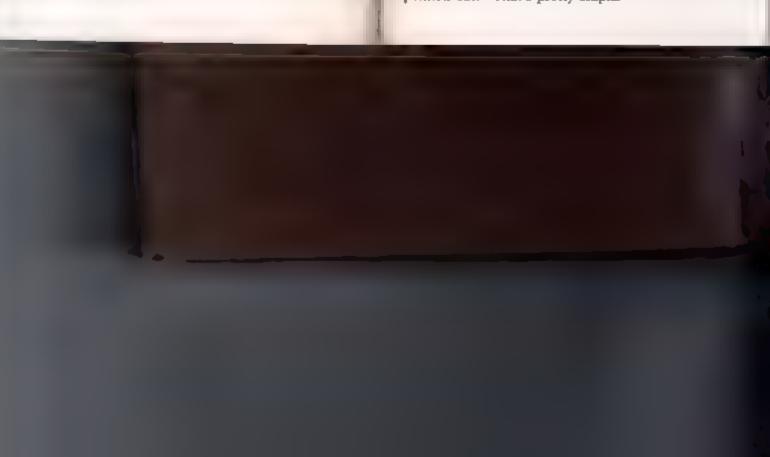

Kelly put her hand on his arm and pulled him to his feet. "Don't bother to deny it, Zack. We know it's true We just caught you, and besides, Dolores Del Olio saw you deface that sign."

"What I want to know is how you made that meatball." Screech said. "Wow."

"We won't tell anyone about this, Zack," Lisa promised, "But why did you do it?"

Zack looked from one face to another. "I can't believe you guys think it was me. How could you think that I did those stupid things?"

"Well, you are wearing an ascot, Zack," Screech pointed out. "That's pretty stupid."

Zack ripped off the ascot and shoved it into his pocket. "I'm not the prankster," he snarled.

"If you're not, then what were you doing here in the dark?" Kelly asked pointedly

Zack hesitated. He couldn't tell Kelly about Rupert and Dolores. Then she'd never forgive him

Kelly hung her head sadly. "You see?" she said Lisa shook her head, "Oh, Zack,"

Zack turned to Screech, "Even you, Screech?" he asked.

"I didn't believe it," Screech said. "I stuck up for you. We all had this plan to trap the real prankster "

"Speaking of 'we," "Lisa said. "Where are Jessie and Slater?"

"I guess they can't hear us," Kelly said. She went over to the closet and yanked open the door Jessie and Slater were locked in a torrid embrace

Lisa giggled, "Some detectives."

Slater and Jessie sprang out of their lip lock "What's going on?" Slater said.

"We caught the prankster," Lisa told them, indicating Zack

I'm not-" Zack started

But suddenly they heard a noise. Someone was heading toward the prop room. Quickly Kelly sprang for the lights and shut them off Within seconds she was back behind the rack of costumes Slater and Jessie were back in the closet, Lisa was underneath the tarp, and Screech had crawled underneath the unstuffed tiger. At the last moment Zack jumped behind the rack with Kelly

The door creaked open, then closed. A dark figare moved into the room. Slowly the figure walked toward the game decorations and pep rally favors in the corner

Zack sprang out and grabbed the intruder by the elbow. The figure tried to twist away, but he held on fast, "Somebody turn on the lights!" he called

The lights blazed on, and Zack found himself looking into the seductive face of Dolores Del Olio But now the lovely Dolores only looked frightened

"Let go of me!" she said fearfully

Zack dropped her arm and then remembered the note. Of course. Dolores was only here to meet Rupert

"Rupert's not here, Dolores," he said in a low tone. "I saw your note on the board "

But Kelly beard him. "Who's Rupert?" she asked "She didn't come here to meet Rupert," Screech said. "I wrote that note Besides, look."

Screech pointed to Dolores's other hand. She was holding a can of spray paint

"Holy cow," Zack said. "You are the prankster!" Dolores shrank back against the wall. "Uh-oh," she said weakly

"Dolores," Jessie said wonderingly, "It was you all along?"

"How could you have accused Zack?" Kelly demanded angrily

A tear slowly shpped down Dolores's pretty cheek. "I'm so sorry," she said in a choked voice "This was going to be my last prank, I promise

"But why did you do the other ones at all?" Zack asked Dolores sighed. "I've gone to a different school for every year of high school. You guys don't know what that's like."

"I do." Slater said

Dolores turned to him. "That's right. You traveled around because your dad was in the army Then maybe you know how I feel. I never get to make friends. As soon as people warm up to me I'm gone."

'I guess it didn't help being in a banch of foreign countries, either," Slater said grudgingly, "I know how that is, too"

Dolores looked down. "Actually, that's not, uh strictly true. I haven't lived in Italy, France Austria, England, or Luxembourg."

'Where, then?" Lisa asked

Delores gulped. "Indiana, Illinois. Connecticut Virginia, New Mexico, and here. I mean, there were other states, but those are the highlights."

"That's quite a difference," Jessie pointed out dryly "Indiana is a long way from Paris

"My dad is a troubleshooter for companies that are having problems," Dolores explained. "I was born in Gary, Indiana, and I've been moving around ever since."

"That does sound tough," Lisa said, sympathy creeping into her voice

This was my last shot," Dolores said. "Usually I just creep into a new school and nobody notices me. Nobody sits with me in the cafeteria and nobody walks with me to class. Then finally, maybe one nice person befriends me. If I'm lucky, Even if I have nothing in common with that person, it's a big relief to have someone to talk to, so I end up acting like their best friend. I just couldn't face another year like all those others. Especially my senior year."

"So what did you do?" Slater asked. "Decide to be a criminal instead of a wallflower?"

"Not exactly," Dolores said. "You see, I was so miserable that my mom took charge. She took me to this great place in L.A. and I got a makeover. She bought me a whole new wardrobe. She said I could make a difference this time. But I was scared," Dolores said haltingly. "I didn't want to disappoint her. Even though I hated being a wallflower, at least it was safe. I didn't know if I could make real friends or join a popular crowd. So I came up with this plan."

Dolores hesitated. "Go on," Zack urged, his arms crossed. Everyone else seemed to be melting from Dolores's story, but he wasn't. After all, he was the one she was trying to get into trouble

"Well, I noticed from going to lots of different schools that there's usually a pattern. In one of the cool groups, there's always a guy who's a troublemaker, a wise guy. So I thought if there was a bunch of pranks and everyone thought this certain guy did them and I shielded him, his friends would be supergrateful and would want to be friends with me. So I picked you," she said, turning to Zack. "I'm really sorry. But I figured since you did done so many other bad things, it wouldn't hurt to have just one more thing pinned on you. And nobody else would know but your friends, anyway."

Jessie nodded slowly "Actually, it's sort of ingecal," she said.

"It makes sense," Slater agreed.

"Easy for you guys to say," Zack grumbled. "It's not you she was throwing mud at."

"Zack, I really am sorry." Dolores said again "Rupert tried to tell me you were a great gus I guess I just didn't want to believe it."

"Who's Rupert?" Kelly asked again.

"What I don't understand, Dolores," Zack said quickly, 'is why you had to invent that exotic back ground for yourself."

She shrugged 'I guess that was the part of the plan that went a little overboard."

"The part?" Zack asked incredulously "I'd say it was the whole thing."

"I just thought everybody would be more impressed if I had an exciting background" she said it was dumb. The only one who was impressed was Rupert, but he's a real snob."

"Who's Rupert?" Kelly asked a third time.

"Well," Zack said quickly, "I'm glad you learned tour lesson, Dolores We all forgive you don't we gavs? And I forgive all my friends for thinking I was the prankster Someday I'll get over the hurt, I'm sure." Zack swiped at the part of his check where a tear would roll down if there were one.

"Well, I guess it's all's well that ends well," Jessie said, giving Slater a private smile

"Thanks for being so understanding," Dolores said to them "The funny thing is, I managed to make a really good friend, anyway. And it didn't have anything to do with my master plan."

"There's just one thing I want to know," Keliy said, "Who is Rupert?"

Dolores Supped her red hair over her shoulder "Zack's cousin, of course Don't you guys know ham?"

The gang all exchanged glances.

"Rupert?" Jessie said questioningly

"I guess you haven't seen much of him since he travels so much," Dolores said. "Monte Carlo Switzerland, you know I just think it's great that Zack has a cousin from Studovía I just love his accent. And it's so firmly that the two of them look like twins!"

"That is funny," Kelly said, shooting Zack a nasty look.

Zack wanted to sink through the floor. It was clear that he had some major explaining to do. Somehow he knew that no matter how much he did, he still wouldn't get out of the doghouse with Kelly.

Well, at least there was still Dolores. Now that Rupert was moving back to Europe, Zack could move in. A little guilt from her false accusation could go a long way.

Dolores checked her watch. "Listen, you guys, I've got to run. Remember that new friend I was telling you about?" Her topaz eyes sparkled, and she grinned.

"Ah-ha," Lisz said. "Somehow I think that this is a male friend."

"Exactly," Dolores said. "And he's a dream. Gorgeous, handsome, and sweet."

"Whoa," Lisa said. "Who is this guy and why haven't I checked him out?"

"He's new here, too," Dolores confided. "His name is Cody Durant. I met him at the beach, and I told him I'd meet him there this afternoon. See you later."

Dolores ran out of the room happily. Kelly stared after her, openmouthed. Then she turned to Zack.

"This is all your fault!" she hissed. "And you'd better not write Dolores any letters for Cody. either."

"So tell us about Rupert, Zack," Slater said wickedly. "How come you didn't introduce us?"

"Yeah," Screech said. "I'd like to meet your cousin."

"There is no cousin, Screech," Lisa told him.
"Zack made him up."

"And I think I know why," Slater said. "It's because Dolores thought you were a burn. Everybody knew she wanted a sophisticated guy. Pretty smart, Morris. Too bad you got caught."

Zack eyed Kelly uneasily. She didn't look angry anymore. As a matter of fact, she looked kind of sad. That made him feel worse than ever.

"I was just trying to make Dolores feel at home."
he said. "I felt sorry for her. I was trying to bring her a taste of home. How could I know that home was really Gary, Indiana? It was just my way of unrolling the Bayside High welcome mat."

"Don't bother, Zack," Kelly said. Her voice sounded tight, as though she were fighting back tears. "We all know you were chasing Dolores. And to think I actually thought that you... To think that when I reread those letters, I actually wondered..."

Zack knew immediately what she meant. "I did mean those things, Kelly," he said desperately. "Every one of them."

"Give me a break," Kelly said flatly. "If you think I'm going to believe that, you're crazy. I'm not that stupid, Zack! I mean, I might have beenbut not anymore. And never again."

Choking back a sob, Kelly rushed from the room. Zack slowly sank down on the tarp.

"Well," Slater said philosophically, "you may not be the prankster, but you're still a number one jerk."

"You can say that again." Zack moaned.

"You're a number one jerk," Screech said help-

Zack sighed. 'Thanks, Screech. I can always count on you in a pinch."

"Hey, I'm not going to pinch you, too," Screech protested. "There I draw the line."

Later that night, Kelly sat in the deserted Max all alone, nursing a hot-fudge sondae. Even extra whipped cream hadn't made her feel any better, though. In only one week, she'd found out her true love, lost her true love, and almost found another old love. She felt sad, but she also felt exhausted.

A jangling interrupted her thoughts, and she looked up to see Rosma, the gypsy, "It's you!" Kelly said.

Rosina nodded. "You look very unhappy, young lady," she said in her thick accent. She was still wearing sunglasses, even though the sun was down. Kelly guessed that she still had her eye infection.

Rosina slid into the booth with a jangling and clanging of necklaces. "Oh, Rosina," Kelly said with a sigh. "I was so happy after you told my fortune, and now I'm completely miserable."

"And vat ees meking you meeserable?" Rosina asked, adjusting the flowing scarf on her head.

"You told me who my true love was, and I lost him," Kelly said sorrowfully. "But now I'm wondering if I really loved him. And I'm not sure if Cody really loved me."

"Who ees thees Cody?" Rosina asked. "I did not see a Cody in your feet."

"But you said . . . Well, I guess you didn't say, exactly," Kelly admitted. "I just assumed it was Cody."

"And zat was your first mistake," Rosina said. "I'm the fortune teller, sveetheart, not you."

Kelly leaned over the table. "Then can you tell me who my true love really is?"

Rosina shrugged, and the little bells on her necklace tinkled. "But of course Ees easy."

"Who?" Kelly breathed. "And be specific. I don't want to mess up again."

"No problem. Eet ees Zack."

"Zack?" Kelly asked incredulously. "Zack Morris?"

Bosina nodded "Exactly."

Kelly slowly fell back. "Wow," she said. "This is amazing. My true love is Zack."

Her business done, Rosina slid out of the booth. "I hope I have helped you, young lady."

Kelly nodded, her blue eyes shining. "Oh, absolutely. You've been superhelpful. I finally know what to do."

Rosina paused, "And what weel you do?"

"Well, now that I know Zack and I will end up together eventually. I can prepare." Kelly said. "You see, the teen years should be a time of experimentation and exploration. That's the only way I can learn how to be a good life partner. In the rain forest of life, why carry a defoliant?"

Rosina passed a faltering hand to her brow. "So vat you are saying ees..."

"That it's time to date like mad!" Kelly said enthusiastically.

Rosina keeled over in a dead faint. Kelly jumped up, then leaped over Rosina's inert body to get help. Funny, she thought as she raced to the kitchen. Rosina is wearing running shoes just like Zack's. How about that—even gypsy fortune-tellers like to jog!

Zack strikes back

Life at Bayside High is pretty much of a bum-mer. With Kelly head over heels for surfer hunk Cody Durant, Zack is beside himself. Plus, the whole gang is suffering from the mid-semester blues—nothing is happening.

Then the prankster strikes, and every day a new catastrophe rocks Bayside. With the big football game just around the corner, the situation is serious.

On top of this, Cody wants Zack to help him keep the flame burning with Kelly. And just when Zack decides it's time to recepture Kelly's love, a gorgeous transfer student catches his eye.

Will the gang cetch the prankster in time? Can Zack woo two girls at once? Find out when you read Zack Strikes Back, the hot new novel about the Sanadby the Bail' gang.

